WAGES TO BE CUT BY LAW JAN. 2!
MORE FACTS ABOUT PAYROLL TAX!

If You Doubt Them, Ask Your Paymaster

IF YOU are a worker employed in private industry your pay will be CUT January 2.

The New Deal's so-called Social Security Act compels your employer to reduce your wage or salary. He must do it. He cannot avoid it.

TWENTY-SIX MILLION wages are to be affected. Your wage, very likely, is one of that twenty-six million.

If you are a worker employed in the lower bracket class of private industry in Massachusetts your pay will be CUT TWICE on January 2.

The State's Unemployment Compensation Law will take as big a slice of your salary as the New Deal gets next year.

Your employer must make the TWO REDUCTIONS before he lets you have your pay envelope.

That is the law. It demands obedience. It will not let you escape.

If you doubt this, ask your paymaster. If he also doubts this, have him ask his lawyer. The lawyer will tell you this is the truth.

But perhaps you won't have to ask your paymaster. He may tell you before you ask him.

The Providence Public Market Company of Providence is one of these organizations that tell you without being asked.

Regretfully, Gustaf T. Malmstead, president of this company, has informed his 500 clerks to get ready for the New Deal tax on their wages January 2.

More regretfully, Mr. Malmstead told his clerks he would be forced to give up his private security plan which gave every worker FREE insurance.

This was his statement:

"There is nothing political in our decision. We just cannot afford to keep the group insurance plan and at the same time abide by the Social Security Act.

"If we had a choice between the Federal plan and our own program we'd take ours, because we believe it to be fairer to our employes."

The 2500 workers of Lever Brothers, soap manufacturers, haven't been told yet. They will.

This company is going ahead with arrangements for the INVOLUNTARY and WHOLESALE wage cut. And today this statement was made:

"Beginning January 1, 1937, the 2 per cent tax

An Unwise Labor Fight The Shrinking Atlantic England's Democratic King Soon, No Coal-Digging

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International copyright and all other rights reserved.)

In New York City, where the two theater labor unions are quarreling, gas and stench bombs were exploded in eight moving picture theaters. Thirteen thousand spectators, with no part in the labor quarrel, were driven to the streets, tears streaming from their eyes, a considerable number with legs badly injured by the broken glass of tear bombs placed under theater seats.

That is not a good way to make union labor popular with the general public; intelligent labor men will remember that among 130,000,000 Americans, fewer than 4,000,000 are members of labor unions. The unions doubtless have the right to fight among themselves, but the fighting should not include bombing innocent theatrical audiences. Americans, as the late Lord Northcliffe said, "are a docile people," but they will not stand everything forever.

The Atlantic ocean continues to shrink. Captain Mollison, British pilot, left New York in his "flutter jacket" and black tie, ready for a party, stopped in Newfoundland, flew from Newfoundland to London in 13 hours and 17 minutes, over a stormy ocean. The fact that he averaged only 160 miles an hour, means that even now "Newfoundland to London" can be flown in six hours.

The new, young King of England, who wonders: How a country, rich enough to build the steamer Queen Mary could tolerate horrible slums, housing children in Scotch and English cities, seems to be democratic in more ways than one. In his first speech to Parliament he does not refer to himself as "we," as other Kings, emperors, etc., have done, referring to their important selves. Even his modest father, King George, spoke of himself as "we."

Young King Edward says "I" and "me" and "my" instead of "we" and "us" and "our."

Furthermore, his speech, approved in advance, if not written by England's prime ministers and his advisers, was not delivered in person with accompaniment of gilded coach, etc. He sent it to be read by Lord Onslow.

Mr. E. P. Kramer, of Atlanta, who knows all about gas, says the world should soon be rid of coal smoke and soot, spoiling the city buildings and human lungs, extracted from coal in the mines, will be piped to big cities for light, heat, power, the smoke left behind.

Coal in the mines could also be transferred into electricity in the mines, and run over wires to supply distant places with light, heat and power. An unnecessary waste of energy is handling and hauling heavy coal. Railroads must expect

TIGER ELEVEN 10-1 FAVORITE TO DEFEAT HARVARD

By DAVE EGAN

In the gallery of ghosts which is known as the Harvard Stadium, Harvard and Princeton will play at football for the 32nd time this afternoon.

Off and on, they have been baring their tusks at each other since the year of our Lord, 1877, which is a long way back as the crow flies, and the hallowed, ivy-clad tradition of the annual Harvard-Princeton game is expected to attract some 55,000 customers.

Beaten only by Pennsylvania, 7-0, Princeton is a prohibitive favorite to win over a Harvard team which has been mashed into a pulp in the past two week-ends, first by a great Army team and then by the Hills of Hanover, N. H., otherwise known as Dartmouth.

100 SCOUTS AID SEARCH IN CAMBRIDGE

Frantic parents, police, friends and a posse of playmates searched along Charles River today for five-year-old Chester Harris twin son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Harris of Chestnut street, Cambridge, missing since 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The searchers were augmented early in the day by a force of 100 Boy Scouts, recruited from several Cambridge troops.

The youngster, a blond-haired child, was last seen playing with his twin brother, Charles, in the rear of their home shortly after they returned from school.

Police reported that an all-night search with floodlights along the bank of the Charles river proved futile. They scoured the neighborhood and several vacant houses near the Harris home, but could find no trace of the child.

Parents of the child said he was wearing blue overalls, khaki coat, brown shoes and stockings. They said he could be easily recognized by his blond hair.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 31 — Supremely confident that he will be elected President of the United States, Governor Alfred M. Landon today prepared for his final major public appearance of the campaign.

Governor Landon will talk to the nation for the last time, except for a brief radio message on election eve, at a mammoth meeting in St. Louis' huge municipal auditorium tonight.

Governor Landon's words will be carried to the nation over the WABC-Columbia network, from 9:30 to 10 p. m., Central Standard Time.

(In the Boston area, Governor Landon will be heard over station WNAC from 10:30 to 11 P. M.)

When Gov. Landon's Sunflower Special pulled into the Union Station here this morning, the first persons to greet him were Mrs. Landon and his daughter, Peggy Anne.

The three were enthusiastically cheered by the crowd around the train as they stood on the rear platform.

"Have you had breakfast?" someone shouted.

"Yep," said the governor, I can't come up smiling until I've had my rations."

WAGES TO BE CUT JAN. 2 UNDER PAYROLL TAX LAW

is to be deducted under the Social Security Act and the Unemployment Insurance Law from the salaries of our employed."

Many of the Boston and Maine Railroad employes have not as yet learned about the new tax on their wages. They're going to.

For railroad officials today said:

"We believe our employes will have to be taxed 1 per cent for the Unemployment Insurance Law. We shall have to make that reduction."

The same is true in the vast Boston and Albany Railroad organization, where an official declared:

"The mandatory deduction will be made after the first of the year."

Soon the hundreds of Gillette Safety Razor Company employes will receive notices of the two new taxes that will lower their pays.

Formulating plans to take 2 per cent out of every pay envelope, a Gillette spokesman stated:

"Arrangements are being made now to carry out the requirements of the law. The deductions will be made after January 2."

It is ironical that the world-famous John Hancock Life INSURANCE Company must bow to the New Deal's "security" legislation. Yet such is the case. And the company today admitted:

"The Federal program is a law, and we and all our employes must abide by it."

In a few days the hundreds of men working for H. P. Hood and Company, milk dealers, will be told about the two new taxes on their earnings.

At the company headquarters, officials said:

"We are obliged to deduct 2 per cent from the pay envelopes of our employes."

The thousands of men and women employed in the giant plants of the Pacific Mill Corporation will shortly receive similar news. For, in response to inquiry, the president's office stated:

"There is nothing the company can do about it."

A like statement was made by the Boston Elevated's Director of Public Relations, L. J. Mathieu, who declared:

"My understanding is that on January 2 two deductions must be made from every wage. We shall have to do what the law requires."

Other companies planning official notification to the thousands of men and women they employ include: United Shoe Machinery Company, New England Telephone and Telegraph Company, General Electric Company and Checker Taxicab Company.

Each of these large organizations will apply the two new taxes to all pays.

If you are a $14 a week stenographer employed in one of these companies or in any of others in Massachusetts, you may think your little salary won't be touched by the New Deal and the state.

That's where you're wrong.

The two taxes are ready to be clamped on your pay envelope.

In fact, the following salary cuts have been arranged to last you until you're 65 years of age:

28 cents a week or $14.56 a year in 1937.
35 cents a week or $18.20 a year in 1938-1939.
42 cents a week or $21.84 a year in 1940-1942.
49 cents a week or $25.48 a year in 1943-1945.
56 cents a week or $29.48 a year in 1946-1948.
63 cents a week or $32.76 a year in 1949 and thereafter.

New Dealers have laid great stress on the attractive $85-a-month benefits that will be paid to men and women 65 years or older.

Perhaps you have listened to the New Dealers and believe your contributions to the State and Federal governments are worthwhile.

But will you with your $14 wage get the $85 pension?

Not at all. You'd have to earn $3000 a year for 43 years to get that.

You, working and paying constantly for 45 years, can expect a pension of only about $9 a week, or approximately $36 a month.

And if you're 50 years of age, your pension will be about $20 a month.

You may tell your employer that this isn't security; that people on relief often get more than $20 a month without having to pay for it.

Your time will be wasted. Your employer didn't write the law. The New Deal did.

Or you may complain that under the non-contributory old age pension acts in operation in 40 States a married couple can get $60 a month without paying a single cent.

It won't do you any good to complain. The law is the law. And you must pay.

Your brother who earns $30 a week also must pay. If he is 25 years old he will have to pay the tax 40 years to get a pension of less than $56 a month.

From him the Unemployment Insurance Law and the Social Security Act will take the following amounts:

60 cents a week or $31.20 a year in 1937.
75 cents a week or $39.00 a year in 1938-1939.
90 cents a week or $46.80 a year in 1940-1942.
$1.05 a week or $54.60 a year in 1943-1945.
$1.20 a week or $62.40 a year in 1946-1948.
$1.35 a week or $70.20 a year in 1949 and thereafter.

The higher your pay the more you will be taxed. Neither the Insurance Law nor the Security Act intends to let you avoid any payments.

So these amounts will be taken from the pay envelope of your other brother with the $40 a week salary:

80 cents a week or $41.60 a year in 1937.
$1.00 a week or $52.00 a year in 1938-1939.
$1.20 a week or $62.40 a year in 1940-1942.
$1.40 a week or $72.80 a year in 1943-1945.
$1.60 a week or $83.20 a year in 1946-1948.
$1.80 a week or $93.60 a year in 1949 and thereafter.

If this brother is 30 years of age, he must pay his "security" tax for 35 years before he can get a pension of less than $57 a month.

You may call this unfair and point to the thousands of married men who have been getting $60 a month in 40 States without paying anything.

But the New Deal law stands. You PAY now. And often you get less.

Perhaps you have a third brother, more fortunate than the rest of the family. He earns $45 a week.

Will the tax grabbers overlook him?

Not on your life.

Already the Security Act and the Unemployment Insurance law are ready to tap his salary in the following manner:

90 cents a week or $46.80 a year in 1937.
$1.12 a week or $58.50 a year in 1938-1939.
$1.35 a week or $70.20 a year in 1940-1942.
$1.57½ a week or $81.90 a year in 1943-1945.
$1.80 a week or $93.60 a year in 1946-1948.
$2.02½ a week or $105.30 a year in 1949 and thereafter.

If this brother is 35 years of age, how much of a pension will he get if he works and pays every week of his life until he is 65?

He will get about $58 a month if the government has the money at that future date.

You say it is going to be difficult for a man accustomed to earning $45 a week to quit his job and live on less than $15 a week.

But that's the law.

Your brother will have to accomplish the feat.

The New Dealers brag about what they have done for you, your brothers and all working people.

Now, with your wages dropping two per cent on January 2, you and your brothers can consider what the New Dealers are doing TO you.

Who ever heard of forcing employers to take money out of workers' pay envelopes to "help" them?

Of course, the New Dealers do promise to give you something in return for what they are taking out of your wages.

They promise that if you work CONTINUOUSLY until you are 65 and then quit work, they will give you a pension ranging from $10 a month up to $85 a month. Though you must earn $3000 a year to get the maximum.

The amount you will receive will depend on how young you are now and how many years you will be able to work and pay.

You can only guess how much pension you will ever draw.

The New Deal reduced the value of dollars once.

The New Deal can do it again.

There may be even less gold and more printing press.

But the money the government takes out of your pay envelope January 2 won't require any guessing on your part.

It will be all very real.

Also real is the fact that the New Deal has arrogated to itself the power to do your thinking for you.

It is going to get its share of your wages until you are 65.

It will collect every week you work.

It will get to your pay envelope even before you do.

The New Deal will regiment you a la Russia; give you a number in its files.

And, in return, the New Deal promises you a rather slim handout in the distant future.

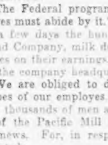
All you can do is hope this promise will not be like the promise to balance the budget, to reduce the government's expenditures by "at least 25 per cent" and to lower taxes on food and clothing.

(In tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser proof of the false propaganda spread by the sponsors of the Act will be printed.)

"PAYROLL TAX FANTASTIC," SAY PEOPLE IN STREET

A symposium of men and women on the street disclosed that the people who are to be taxed under the new Social Security Act consider it one of the most fantastic pieces of high finance yet perpetrated by the Raw Deal.

The inquiring reporter asked, "What do you think of the new Social Security Act which goes into effect the first of next year by taxing both employer and employee?"

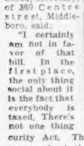


Thelma McCloud

Thelma McCloud, secretary, of 305 Centre street, Middleboro, said:

"I certainly am not in favor of that bill. In the first place, the only thing social about it is the fact that everybody is taxed. There's not one thing social about the security Act. The only concrete section about the misnamed Security Act is the removal of a percentage of the contents of my pay envelope. That's the only certain thing we know."

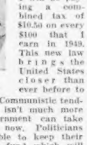
Joseph Phelan, factory clerk, of 39 Birch Street, No. Quincy said:



Joseph Phelan

"I find it difficult enough to live now without giving away any more taxes. According to figures, my employer and I will be paying a combined tax of $10.50 on every $100 that I earn in 1949. This new law brings the United States closer than ever before to Socialistic and Communistic tendencies. There isn't much more that the government can take away from us now. Politicians will not be able to keep their hands off the fund which will eventually be created."

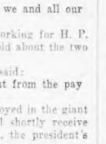
Dorothy DeWitt, office worker, of 376 Central street, Auburndale, said:



Dorothy De Witt

"I cannot see where the Social Security Act can provide 'a living income' to the wage earners of the nation who are unable, either because of low earning power, age disability, physical handicap or unemployment to provide for their home security. One has to be at least 65 years old to receive an old-age pension. The average length of life in America is but 60 years. The government seems to have protected itself pretty well in this respect."

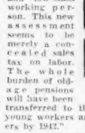
Mary Curran, salesgirl, of 19 Gates street, South Boston, said:



Mary Curran

"When President Roosevelt was inaugurated he promised to 'soak the rich.' In reality, with this new social security tax bill, he is soaking the moderate and low-class working person. This new assessment seems to be merely a concealed sales tax on labor. The whole burden of old-age pensions will have been transferred to the backs of the young workers and their employers by 1947."

Louis Chedekel, manufacturer, of 761 Westford street, Lowell, said:



Louis Chedekel

"Even before the Security Act has gone into effect, I have been bothered no end filling out all sorts of blanks and forms. I shall be taxed an amount which is inconsistent with my profits. The government evidently found it difficult to borrow funds and conceived this scheme of raising money. The government contributes nothing to this old-age pension, yet it wastes millions on all sorts of boondoggling projects."

Landon Will Restore The 'American Way'

He will guide his country back into the wise and safe course of constitutional government.

This is his pledge:

"I intend to see that government bureaucracy never again starts choking American business.

"I intend to see that American initiative has a chance to give jobs to American workers.

"I intend to broaden the market for American producers."

That is a program that will assure permanent recovery for America. IT IS THE EXACT OPPOSITE OF THE ROOSEVELT PROGRAM.

* * *

THE record of the Roosevelt administration is THE RECORD OF FOUR WASTED YEARS.

Four years of FAILURE must be charged against President Roosevelt.

Four years of WASTEFUL DISSIPATION OF THE NATION'S RESOURCES must be accounted for by Mr. Roosevelt.

Four years of MISGOVERNMENT and of ABUSED POWERS and of DISREGARD FOR THE CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS OF THE PEOPLE are written in giant letters in the record of the Roosevelt New Deal.

This is the wreckage upon which the American people, under the leadership of an American President, must have the courage and the strength to restore the kind of government Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln intended they should have.

* * *

THE American people, as their first step, must restore the Constitution as the pillar of their government.

"Our Constitution is not a lifeless piece of paper," Mr. Landon reminds his countrymen. "It is the underlying law of the land and the charter of the liberties of our people.

"The people, and they alone, gave it life.

"The people, and they alone, have the right to amend or destroy it.

"Until the people in their combined wisdom decide to make the change, it is the plain duty of the people's servants to keep within the Constitution."

Governor Landon has arisen to full stature as an American statesman in this emergency in which he finds his country.

The Republican party has risen above all lines of politics and partisanship to become the TRUE AMERICAN PARTY, in order that it may be the vehicle of AMERICAN REHABILITATION.

* * *

THE nation cannot divide against itself, and have the strength to pull out of the wilderness in which the New Deal has left it.

Its people cannot pull and tug against themselves, as Republicans, as Democrats, as Independents.

They must join in THE GREAT AMERICAN CAUSE as Governor Landon has revealed it to them, and accept the obligations of citizenship as he has described them.

This is the way out of the depression.

It is the way to recovery.

IT IS THE AMERICAN WAY IN WHICH GOVERNOR LANDON LEADS.

EXTRA POLICE REQUESTED FOR POLLS

A request that special details of police be assigned polling places throughout the city to prevent violence on Election Day was made to Police Commissioner Eugene M. McSweeney today by City Councillor Robert Gardiner Wilson, Jr.

The request followed a statement from the headquarters of the Republican State Committee that more than 7000 volunteer workers and private detectives would challenge the ballot of every person suspected to be a "repeater" or a "mattress" voter.

Councillor Wilson requested also that officers be shifted from polling places to which they are regularly assigned and asked that officers who are familiar with residents in the neighborhoods of the polls be assigned in their place.

"Officers who are assigned to vicinities they are familiar with, because of their knowledge of the residents of the neighborhood will aid in a large way of apprehending "repeaters" trying to "steal" the votes of honest citizens," he said.

URGES EARLY VOTING

"I am particularly desirous that special details of police be assigned to the so-called politically cancerous spots in Boston. They should be stationed in the streets in the vicinity of such places.

"I doubt if the people of Boston have ever been confronted with such a condition as now exists here," he continued. "The Presidential election of 1928 will go down in history as one of the most riotous ever to be held here.

"The 'repeater' makes no distinction between Republican or Democrat—he votes on the first name given him by local night men who are parties to this voting conspiracy. It is to the advantage of every citizen, be he Republican, Democrat, or Independent, to protect his own vote by going to the polls early."

At the headquarters of the Republican volunteer lawyers' committee in Pemberton square, Attorney Theodore P. Hollis issued a plea to every citizen of this city to aid authorities and volunteer workers in defeating illegal voters. He said:

"The Republican party is doing everything possible to defeat the aims of the unlawful vote. Our investigators and private detectives are working by day and night on suspicious cases. Any citizen desirous of decent, honest government would be willing to aid us in our fight.

"Any citizen who has knowledge of an illegally registered voter attempting to vote next Tuesday, should immediately notify either the officer at the polling place or the Republican volunteer workers in order that the vote may be challenged."

What Landon Stands For:
Peace for America

GOVERNOR LANDON, as President of the United States, will be unequivocally pledged to keeping America out of war.

He believes America has been at peace with all the world since the close of the World War because the American people have compelled their government, often against its will, to mind its own business.

He believes the people of the United States have acted wisely in rejecting every effort to get their country into international alliances.

It is his belief that if America had been a member of the League of Nations or of its creature, the World Court, the nation could not have avoided war.

Govgrnor Landon, therefore, will continue America's policy of peace, by committing his Administration to "minding its own business" in foreign affairs.

Nothing he could assure the people of this country would be more welcome to them. Security against war is the greatest gift any government can give its people, and avoidance of entangling alliances is the first essential of American security.

Governor Landon stands for friendly relations with all the nations of the world, and he believes this end can best be gained by keeping out of the quarrels that may involve other countries.

INCREASE OF 12 PCT. IN LIVING COSTS

It cost a workingman 12 per cent more to maintain his family this year than it did in 1933, when President Roosevelt moved into the White House.

Official figures contained in Consumers' Guide, published by the Bureau of Labor at Washington, show that for every $100 workers had to spend for general necessities in the trough-period of the depression, they now have to spend $112 to buy the same goods and services.

And the cost of food went even higher.

Food prices have shown and will continue to show more drastic changes, federal experts point out as they caution housewives to institute a diligent and careful study of seasonal food purchases to offset increased costs.

In the same official organ of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration it is stated:

"In March, 1933, 58 cents would buy as much food as a dollar would buy in the years 1924-1929 and as much as $1.04 would buy in September, 1935. Three years later, in July, 1936, food costs were 93 per cent higher than in March, 1933; that is, it now takes $1.40 to buy the food which 58 cents bought in March, 1933."

GOING HIGHER

In other words, housewives are paying 40 per cent more for the ordinary staples of life than they did before the present administration made a raw deal of what they call the New Deal.

And economists agree, as well as heads of large retail chain groceries that food prices will go unquestionably higher.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics report that the cost of all food groups, except fresh fruit and vegetables has been going up steadily since June; that meats in general advanced 2 per cent to the highest level reached this year.

Higher fresh milk and cheese prices, the official figures reveal, caused a 14 per cent increase in the dairy group.

Steak prices are up a few pennies; eggs are higher; apples are higher, also cereals and bakery products.

Thanks to President Roosevelt's commanded slaughtering of pigs, pork cuts, compared with a year ago, and compared with September, 1929, are relatively more expensive than beef, Washington statistics reveal.

Higher prices naturally place a premium on careful buying.

But what housewife has the time and the energy to spend her entire day shopping from store to store in an effort to find bargains when from day to day the foods she and her family must have to live continue to go up and up!

What housewife, for that matter, can cope with advancing prices when husband's income is pinched through reduction of salaries and burdening governmental taxes?

A steady and gradual increase in food costs is shown on the graph drawn by federal as well as state officials. Food ads carry the warning of higher prices to workingmen and their families.

WPA VOTERS IN LITERARY DIGEST POLL

Thousands of Works Progress the Literary Digest presidential Administration workers voted in poll which predicted a near landslide for Governor Alfred M. Landon it was learned today.

Combating the belief of many that the poll did not reach the "man on the street," it was revealed from an authentic source that this year, for the first time, the lists of names were taken from those of registered voters and even went into WPA employment lists.

In the past it has been the custom of the poll to derive its lists from automobile registrations, telephone directories and other similar means.

It was explained to the Boston Evening American by an executive of a Boston advertising agency, who has full knowledge of the workings of the poll, how special emphasis was made this year to reach the "masses".

"This year in the Literary Digest poll," he said, "straw ballots were sent out in such proportions that made the 'masses' receive far more than the 'classes.' For instance, straw ballots were sent out to perhaps 1,000 business men in a certain city, while 10,000 ballots were sent to the 'man on the street.'

"These figures are by no means correct but they illustrate the workings of the poll which were chiefly to increase the 'mass' ballot and cut down on the so-called 'class.'"

The Literary Digest poll, he explained, realized that this year's election would probably be very close and that it was the belief of many that the person "on the street," the man or woman on relief, would not receive a ballot.

In the last three presidential elections the Literary Digest poll predicted the result with remarkable accuracy. It undertakes the poll in a presidential election with one point solely in mind: Accuracy.

$500,000 Gloucester Fire

RUINS LEFT BY 3-ALARM FLAMES

PLANT AND BRIDGE SWEPT

Aid Summoned From 2 Towns

Gloucester, Oct. 31 — A half-million dollar, three-alarm fire, believed to have been caused by defective wiring, destroyed the plant of the Cape Ann Anchor Works and part of the Boston & Maine railroad bridge over the Annisquam river today.

Fanned by the high wind, the flames whipped through the five buildings of the plant, leveling them, and for a time threatened the nearby oil storage plant of the Gulf Refining Company.

The roaring flames burned away piers supporting the railroad bridge and so weakened the structure that it will be closed to all traffic for an indefinite period.

Commuters in and out of Gloucester will be forced to go to the West Gloucester station, nine miles west of the city for train service until repairs are made. Train service in and out of Gloucester is cancelled indefinitely.

Bus Service

Emergency bus service was immediately provided by the Boston & Maine Railroad to transport Gloucester and Rockport residents from those communities to the West Gloucester station to cover the regular train service out of Gloucester.

Firemen from Manchester and Rockport responded to the second and third alarms to aid the entire local department in battling in control the flames. Another alarm was sounded for the fire boat when the flames spread to the railroad bridge.

In addition to the oil storage plant, nearby dozen residences near the fire were threatened by flames. Families gathered their belongings and fled.

Damage to the Anchor Works was set at $500,000 by Addison Brooks, a director of the company.

In addition, police and fire officials set the damage to the railroad bridge at $40,000 at least.

The fire had apparently been under way for some time before firemen, summoned by the dredge workers, reached the scene. The plant was a veritable furnace with the flames being fanned by the brisk northwest wind.

Much Hose Laid

So great was the heat that firemen had difficulty in getting hose lines near enough to the flames to be effective.

Thousands of feet of hose line was laid and more than a score of streams poured at high pressure into the mass of flames before any noticeable effect was made.

While attempting to battle the flames, firemen found themselves confronted with other difficulties as the fire spread to the railroad bridge and menaced the nearby dwellings and oil plant, which were in direct line with the path of the wind.

It was only by continual wetting down of the buildings that firemen were able to prevent the spread of the flames and avert the probability of a blast and conflagration which might engulf the city.

Japan Hen Sets Solo Egg Mark

Tokyo, Oct. 31 (AP) — Farmer Fujikura's hen did it today.

With a depreciatory cackle, as though to say, "Well, that's nothing—really nothing," the prolific leghorn dropped her 361st egg since Nov. 1, 1935, to set a new world's record for solo hen production.

The new world's champion still had 12 hours in which to make a mark of one higher and she retired to the barn with a strut fairly exuding confidence.

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—Federal poultry experts refused today to concede the world championship egg laying title to Japan.

"That's a mighty fine claim," said Bertley Winton, poultry expert at the agriculture department, "but the farmer's claims are unofficial. We don't recognize them."

Winton then produced records which showed that a White Leghorn hen in the country had been credited with 360 eggs in one year in an official egg-laying contest at Corvallis, Ore., in 1934-35.

And he added that the official world title was credited to a Black Orpington hen in New Zealand. She clocked proudly 361 times during 1936 as officials removed that many eggs from her nest, he said.

Spurs Hunt For Lyons, 'Missing Link' in Murder

face sought Lyons' body, as squads of officers and volunteers looked for it in thickets and swamps.

Continued, in at least 20 states, were perfunctory efforts of authorities to locate Lyons as a possible victim of amnesia or mental shock.

District Attorney Edmund B. Dewing and his staff of investigators expressed themselves as satisfied today that the mystery of Mrs. Asquith's death and dismemberment was cleared up, except in minor detail, by evidence which impelled the Norfolk County grand jury to indict Bartolini, 46-year-old Quincy bandsman, as the "Merry Widows" alleged murderer.

Remaining to be solved was the question of the fate or whereabouts of Lyons, close friend and admirer of Mrs. Asquith.

The district attorney re-asserted flatly his theory that Lyons was slain in the same place and at the same time as was Mrs. Asquith.

To find Lyons' body was his one principal purpose today.

MENTAL EXAMINATION

Bartolini, held without bail in Dedham jail, was to be given a mental examination today by state alienists.

Jail attendants said he seemed dazed and shaken by the sudden change in his status from that of a "material witness" to that of an accused slayer in the shadow of the electric chair.

Three indictments, in all, were returned against him by the grand jury, in special session at Dedham.

The indictments and Bartolini's arrest, immediately following them, came just in time to prevent the prisoner's release on a habeas corpus writ, issued by Judge Hugh D. McLellan in United States District Court.

The murder indictment alleges that Bartolini, on September 20, "did assault and beat Grayce Asquith . . . by striking her over the head with an instrument, a true description of which is to your grand jurors unknown, and by such assault and beating did kill and murder the said Grayce Asquith."

ATTACKED WIDOW

A second indictment alleges that Bartolini, on August 18, broke into Mrs. Asquith's cottage with intent to attack her.

A third indictment alleges that the intended attack was in fact made upon Mrs. Asquith by Bartolini, August 18.

After tearful protestations of "No understand! No understand!" Bartolini, through counsel, pleaded not guilty to all three charges as specified in the indictments.

After having been remanded to Dedham jail, he sat apparently brooding in his cell.

He declined supper and refused to take the 20 minute exercise period allowed him by jail rules.

BOSTON Gets Susanna AWARD

BUT BROOKLYN WINS $500

New York, Oct. 31—Miss Beatrice Knight, music student, of 309 East 19th Street, Brooklyn, today was named winner of the second prize of $500 in the Landon campaign song contest of the Hearst newspapers.

The jury of awards, headed by Dr. Sigmund Spaeth, announced it would not publish the verses of Miss Knight. Robert Bruce, technical adviser of the jury, explained:

"It is not feasible to plug two songs on the same subject at the same time.

"Miss Knight wrote snappy verses, but the jury believes the lyrics of Violet Willoughby, Detroit housemaid, which won the first prize of $1000 in this national competition, should be the ones broadcast and sung at political rallies between now and the close of the campaign."

Boston Winner

Miss Knight has been interested in music since her infancy and took special courses at New York University after being graduated from Erasmus high school. She lives at home with her family.

The jury of awards announced the following list of 25 consolation prizes of $20 each:

GHOST Of Millar WALKS

STORK FINALE ON HALLOWEEN

Stork Synopsis

Charles Vance Millar, a 72-year-old Toronto lawyer, died Oct. 11, 1926.

He lets a will bequeathing the bulk of his fortune to the Toronto mother who bore the greatest number of children in the ten years following his death.

The ten years expires today—actually at 4:30 p. m., but legally, presumably, at midnight.

Any birth counts, under the will—babies born prematurely, born dead or born out of wedlock.

The death rate among progeny of "marathon mothers" has been virtually double that of the city's normal infant death rate.

The amount of the "grand prize"—to be divided equally in case of a tie—is approximately $500,000.

Toronto, Oct. 31 (AP)—Charles Vance Millar, whose pet phrase as a lawyer was "damn dead men! They're always coming back to plague us!" was one of his own dead men today.

Gone these 10 years, the Israelite old bachelor who baited women returned today through the medium of "Clause 9" of his will to reap the whirlwind of a $500,000 whim.

He returned to a melange of mothers, lawsuits, contracts and recriminations; to the last-minute frantic flapping of stork's wings, and to the sobering rumble of a white hearse.

Jumbled Picture

Babies—dozens of them; sheriffs with subpoenas; mothers with lawyers and midwives—and 20th special workers carrying relief baskets at the back door; solemn executors, their dignity a bit askew at finding themselves mixed up in an "exhibition" so far removed from their frock-coated routine.

Mothers praying that the babies they expect may be born in time to count in the fatal race for births—that was the picture as the contest staggered to its close.

No one had the slightest idea who was ahead, so confusing were the claims, so contradictory the records.

Six women appeared to be in a tie as the clock struck midnight. All claimed motherhood of nine children, properly certified.

Among them were Mrs. Lily Kenny, Mrs. John Nagle, Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Pauline Clarke, Mrs. Arthur Tunbeck and Mrs. Isobel MacLean.

In addition, Mrs. Peter Roonas, petite 28-year old wife of a Greek chef and a mother of eight, was confident she would have another child before the contest closed—and has even counted on twins.

Hearing Friday

Counted out by the other mothers but herself strongly insisting she still was among the leaders, was Mrs. Grace Bagnato, claiming nine births but with only seven registered. Mrs. Bagnato, too, thought she would be in the delivery room before the curfew tolled.

Thirteen mothers, including the six leaders, Mrs. Bagnato and others not in the running, probably have received subpoenas to appear next Friday in a hearing on the validity of the "Stork Derby" claims.

The hearing is to bring out not only the claims of the mothers, but also those of the "next of kin" of Millar, who have vowed to have the clause declared void.

It is on that Charles Vance Millar's joke on motherhood came to its climax. It is on that Millar's "damned dead man" came back the day "to plague us"—some back this Halloween anniversary of his death, like a Halloween bogobin, to have one last laugh.

ROOSEVELT SNUB COSTS MANY VOTES, SAY EXPERTS

PAYROLL TAX RESENTMENT ALSO PROVES EXPENSIVE

By BERNARD J. DOHERTY

Election Day, next Tuesday, may see the greatest vote splitting in the history of the Democratic party in Massachusetts.

Resentment over the snub given the Democratic state ticket by President Roosevelt, all the more marked because of the endorsement given to candidates in other states including the Republican Senator Norris of Nebraska and the Communistic-tinged Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota, rankles deep here.

The brunt of this resentment will be taken out on the President in the polling booths, it is being freely predicted.

RESENTMENT OVER TAX

Militant followers in the various camps of the candidates yesterday today that any last minute "forced" gesture from the President will only make matters worse.

The time for an indorsement, they emphasize, was when the President faced the big crowd on Boston Common, when he was surrounded by the candidates.

Added to the disaffection, the candidates are feeling the backwash of the resentment of labor over the disclosure of the 2 per cent pay envelope tax for so-called social insurance, effective beginning in January.

Curley supporters are engineering the Boston Garden meeting to be held tomorrow night into a strictly Curley demonstration, to the exclusion of all other candidates.

"FUNNY" ATTEMPT

Sound trucks throughout the city are boldly advertising the Garden meeting as a Curley rally, and the Curley men are insisting that the governor's Washington street forum man, Theodore Glynn, will be the presiding officer.

Distribution of more than 100,000 tickets of admission to a "debate" between Curley and his Republican opponent, Lodge, at the Garden continues unabated.

Chairman Sinclair Weeks of the Republican State committee today branded the "debate" as "an attempt to be funny" on the part of the governor.

"Of course there will be no debate," he said. "Nobody knows it better than the governor when he had the tickets printed.

"Lodge has more important calls upon his time discussing real issues of the campaign than to engage in debate or controversy with a has-been. The tickets have just as much value as the governor's 'work and wage' campaign slogan of two years ago.

"I have nothing to do with Mr. Lodge's engagements, but I would suggest, if Mr. Curley has any inclination left for a debate after the voters finish with him next Tuesday, that he try to get Senator-elect Lodge to meet him on Armistice Day or at some other time that would not conflict too seriously with the governor's expiring duties on Beacon Hill."

MOVIE BITTERNESS

The radio speech of Mayor Mansfield, arch foe of Governor Curley, has added more bitterness within the ranks.

The mayor made a forceful plea for the election of State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley for governor. He mentioned no other candidates.

It served to accentuate the breach between the candidates. Senator Walsh having spoken a few nights before also, for the state treasurer.

From the Roosevelt supporters were disappointed with Walsh's address because it contained too much about taxes, a sore spot with the Democratic candidates right now.

State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley and Mrs. Mary Curley Donnelly, daughter of Governor Curley, led the Democratic state ticket candidates today on a last minute invasion of Republican strongholds in western Massachusetts.

Still confined to his bed and undergoing treatment for a severe cheat cold, Governor Curley was forced to forego the trip into key cities in the western part of the state, which party strategists decided upon in a final-hour bid for votes.

Responsibilities of the governor's campaign for election to the United States senate rest today upon the slim shoulders of his only daughter.

Mrs. Donnelly has willingly accepted the task of "pinch-hitting" for her father on the political platform. She is doing an exceptionally fine job.

In addition to speaking for her father today at three rallies in Springfield, Holyoke and Chicopee, Mrs. Donnelly will deliver a half-hour radio broadcast to the women of western Massachusetts.

Mrs. Donnelly has been enthusiastically received by her audiences at the rallies where she has called upon the electorate to place their faith in her father.

WINNING VOTES

Political observers readily agree that Mrs. Donnelly's appearance on the political platform is winning votes for her father among the women of the state.

"My father doesn't know the meaning of the word 'quit,' and he'll be at the Boston Garden rally tomorrow night even if they have to carry him there on a stretcher," she said as she led the Curley forces out of Boston for the important invasion of western Massachusetts.

Party leaders have marshalled the heavy oratorical artillery around the state ticket candidates for their final bid for ballots in the territory where the Republican ticket is expected to poll its biggest vote.

Senator David J. Walsh, Lieutenant-Governor Joseph L. Hurley, Ralph T. O'Neil of Kansas, former national commander of the American Legion, and Joseph D. Keenan, assistant United States attorney, who gained national prominence as a result of his prosecution of kidnappers, will augment the state ticket candidates at rallies which have been scheduled for Springfield, Holyoke, Chicopee, Greenfield, Northampton and Pittsfield.

State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley today vigorously asserted his "independence" of any entangling political alliances.

Without naming any group or individual, State Treasurer Hurley said:

"I am no man's servant regardless of how powerful or influential any individual may be or imagine himself to be.

"I intend to serve all of the people of Massachusetts. They will be my only masters when I am elected as Governor next Tuesday.

"My whole political career from the time I entered public service will give testimony to the truth of this assertion."

CHARGES MUD-SLINGING

State Treasurer Hurley charged "hirelings" of his Republican opponent with indulging in a "campaign of mud-slinging and vilification such as has never before been witnessed in the political history of the state."

"It is perfectly clear that the Republican leaders have personally and officially studied my conduct as treasurer of the Commonwealth," the Democratic gubernatorial nominee said.

"They are faced with the fact that my integrity as a public official has never before been questioned.

"It is significant that such outstanding Republican leaders as Representatives Christian A. Herter, Albert Bigelow and William Baker, all members of the Legislative committee on Ways and Means, have not uttered or endorsed the outrageous statements which my opponent and his hirelings have uttered.

"I propose to exercise the same independence of action which has always marked my public career."

Endorsement of State Treasurer Hurley's candidacy was announced today by Carver View Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America. Alvin D. Saunders, chairman, and E. J. O'Neil, secretary, made the announcement of the endorsement.

Mayor Frederick W. Mansfield of Boston announced his endorsement of State Treasurer Hurley in a radio broadcast, which marked the first appearance of the city's chief executive in the campaign.

Hamilton's Visit Presages Victory, Says Haigis

By L. CONANT, Jr.

"The appearance of John D. M. Hamilton, dynamic chairman of the Republican national committee, in Boston today is the final stimulus in the great victory campaign waged by the Republicans in this state," declared John W. Haigis, party gubernatorial nominee, today.

"Hamilton will be greeted with such an audience tonight at the gigantic Jumbo Jubilee in the Boston Garden," he predicted, "as to leave no doubt of the smashing plurality awaiting Governor Alfred M. Landon in Massachusetts next Tuesday.

"The demonstration there will be the last conclusive proof to the New Dealers that their domination over this state will end with the election of the entire Republican ticket.

"It is a rally that will be a milestone in the political history of Boston. It is a rally born of the conviction and determination of the voters of this Commonwealth to restore decent and orderly government to the state and nation.

VICTORY IN AIR

"Victory is in the air today. It will be written on the ballots next Tuesday."

At rallies in Natick, Framingham and Worcester, Haigis confidently asserted that "the sincere protest against the Hurley-Curley-Dolan-Coakley ticup will be expressed in terms of ballots next Tuesday.

"I have told the people," he said, "that I do not want and will not have Coakley directing and dictating the business of this state. My opponent, moreover, addressed Coakley with that affectionate phrase, 'the old war horse,' and publicly urges the voters to reelect this thoroughly discredited individual to the high office of governor's councillor.

"You have had your fill of Coakley and all that he represents. You do not want the office of your chief executive fouled any longer. The issue is clearly before you. There can be no mistake about your answer."

CABOT'S PLEDGES

In a ringing enumeration of his principles, Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., Republican nominee for senator, offered his platform pledges, declaring:

"I stand for a balanced budget.

"I stand for a tariff policy that will protect American labor and American industry.

"I oppose the federal policies which impose burdens upon Massachusetts for the benefit of other sections.

"I deplore the present policy of raising prices of the necessities of life faster than wages can ever keep pace.

"I stand for local control of unemployment relief—with our fair share of federal grants.

"I favor a foreign policy of strict neutrality.

"I favor maintaining an army and navy sufficiently large to be an effective aid in preserving peace for the United States.

"I will work for security for the aged who have certainly earned it, and will strive for a real chance and a real job for those in early life who have been forgotten.

"To these principles I pledge myself."

SAYS LAW VIOLATED

In a blasting attack upon the use of the State Seal on a campaign letter by Attorney-General Paul A. Dever, Felix Forte, Republican nominee for that office, charged that his opponent had violated the law, asserting:

"I charge that Paul A. Dever is subject to indictment for violation of the law and 1 quote General Laws, Chapter 264, Section 5, which reads as follows:

"'Whoever uses the great seal of the Commonwealth for any advertising or commercial purpose shall be punished by a fine of not less than $10.00 and not more than $100.00, or by imprisonment for not more than one year or both.'

"This is the attorney-general who asks for a 'well-deserved' second term."

Leverett Saltonstall, Republican candidate for lieutenant-governor, predicted that:

"Next Tuesday the voters will repudiate and defeat the present wasteful administration, its henchmen and those who have endorsed it, and bring to an end the regular spending spree they have been having at the expense of the citizens.

"I am confident that the citizens do not want in office men who not only evade true issues and responsibility but spend their time riding in taxicabs, buying bouquets and throwing lavish banquets—all at the expense of the citizens."

'SUPREME COURT ELECTION' TUESDAY, SAYS FULLER

In a smashing campaign address former Governor Alvan T. Fuller, speaking in Rochester, N. H., warned his audience that "if Roosevelt is elected he will put Felix Frankfurter on the Supreme Court."

"Let me remind you," he said, "you are not only electing a President next Tuesday, you are electing a Supreme Court."

Reiterating his confidence in victory for Governor Landon, the former governor vigorously asserted that his election "would make way for the employment of 4 million men in the 30 days following election."

This would result, he said, from "a restored confidence on the part of business men who feel that Roosevelt is their revengeful enemy."

"I had the pleasure of standing at Governor Landon's elbow when he spoke to the crowds at Dover and the next day I had the pleasure of a short visit from him in my home at Little Boars Head and my conviction in regard to his future reassured.

TRUSTERS OUT

"I believe he will surround himself with men of character and ability—with records of accomplishment that will be reassuring to the American public. I think the Frankfurters and the Tugwells and the Richbergs and the Ickes will be cleaned out.

"How in the world can anyone expect the great industries of America to go forward with the President of the United States, with a supine Congress trying to find new ways to persecute them? How in the world can anyone expect the American Telephone Company to hire more men and spend money to enlarge their facilities while a bunch of Government Witch Doctors are going over their books on a fishing expedition?

"How can electric light companies and public utilities enlarge their plants, increase their expense and take on added obligations if the government is erecting plants to compete with them?

"What business man wouldn't be apprehensive, when the President notifies business in a condescending way that "for the present, he is giving them a short breathing spell" Mind you—I favor the regulation of public utilities.

TAUGHT BY T. R.

"I didn't have to wait for Franklin Roosevelt to teach me that. I learned that from a greater Roosevelt — Theodore Roosevelt.

"But while I believe in 'regulation'—I do not believe in 'confiscation.'

"I believe in the realizable ideals of Alfred Landon, rather than the synthetic ideas of Franklin Roosevelt. Of course, John Wiseat might disagree with me, but John Wiseat is looking for an appointment and I am not. I am not yet ready to go back on the Constitution of the United States or go into a huddle with Frankfurter and Tugwell and give up our American form of government.

"I want to say to you . . . If you believe in the Constitution of the United States . . . If you believe that the government of the United States should be operated efficiently and economically . . . If you are opposed to the expenditure of public money for political advantage . . . if you want substantial government restored . . . then you should vote for Alfred M. Landon for President."

Although Mr. and Mrs. John Public are not interested in statistics and the worrying knowledge that costs are 5 per cent above a year ago, with all indications of their continued mounting, they are vitally interested in knowing when the price is to be dealt out of the pack and a resumption of normal prices is to start.

MATHEMATICAL PROBLEM

What with reduced incomes and increased taxation and the continued increase of food costs, the working man is finding it too difficult a mathematical problem to solve.

Retail fresh pork prices have bumped over 10 per cent during the last month; also milk and cheese. On September 15 butter prices were 29 per cent above a year ago, the Consumer's Guide points out.

"I want to tell you, as a citizen of your sister state, Massachusetts is to be redeemed. Governor Curley is defeated. He is desperate. He has admitted to Father Coughlin that he is defeated."

VIEWS OF BUSINESS LEADERS SHOULD BE HEEDED

There are few men who have done so much for the comfort and happiness of mankind as Henry Ford; there are few men who have done so much for the comfort and happiness of his own employes.

More than once Mr. Ford has been known to state that high wages are not only helpful for workers, but helpful to most industries. His efforts and energy, like efforts made by other great leaders in the automobile industry, have led the way toward the partial recovery in business existing today.

William J. Cameron, who has long been associated with Mr. Ford and who, it is said, speaks officially for him, made the following statement the other day:

"Improving business would be retarded if men over-fond of bizarre economic theories are allowed to interfere with industry again." He pleaded, "take off the shackles and let industry work."

And Mr. Cameron further stated:

"On the road just ahead of us Legislative barriers to business have been erected. We shall be marching up to them soon. If they remain, they will impede the drive toward business betterment. If reason, or the basic law, revises or removes them, the road will be clear for a long distance."

And Mrs. Henry Ford, who has long been known for her great interest in the working classes and their problems; here is what she recently said:

"Above all things we wish a country enjoying the best of economic health, served by a government that is strong and honest, and I believe Governor Landon, by reason of his character and experience, will give us that kind of government."

The same feeling is shared by most of the employers of the country. The industries with which they are associated are doing better business just now, yet these men, or at least the great majority, are fearful for the future if the New Deal Administration remains in power.

The day has passed when the leaders in industry are mistrusted. In nearly every instance they have shown their interest in their employes by increasing both wages and employment and improving the social conditions of their workers.

No doubt there are still some employers who are not paying all the wage they can afford; there may be some employers unreasonable in other ways. But no one can for a moment contend that business men today are not doing their share. In many instances, they have led the way.

Men like Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president of General Motors; Colby M. Chester, chairman of the board of directors of General Foods, are both known for their great interest in their workers, and both can point to improved business conditions in their particular industries. Would they be urging and almost pleading for the elimination of the New Deal Administration unless convinced that its program was unsound and dangerous to the country?

These men and thousands of other business men are anxious for permanent improvement for American industry and American workers. Their experience and their studies of conditions have proved to them, as it has been recognized by every experienced man, that an artificial recovery brought about by the spending of billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money by a wasteful government may bring to America and to its people a crisis that we may find difficult to survive.

Why should we not open our eyes and face the truth? Why should we not stop the wasteful boondoggling before it is too late? Why should we not place the direction of our country in the hands of an administration which understands commonsense and sane government?

The election of Landon and Knox will bring about a faith and confidence in industry that should mean permanent recovery in business from the day after the election.

HIDDEN TAXES INCREASING, GOV. LANDON CLAIMS

KANSAN PROMISES MOTHERS TO KEEP U. S. OUT OF WAR

"Thanks," said the governor. "Thanks, thanks."

The official party ordered in the Statler hotel, where the governor visited with Mrs. Landon and Peggy Anne for an hour before he began receiving Missouri party leaders.

In his address tonight the Governor will sum up his own stand on the issues before the electorate and hurl his final challenge to the Democratic administration to clarify its aims.

SWING TO LANDON

The flaming intensity of the campaign is being reflected as never before in the thousands who have crowded down to the Sunflower Special in its last journey back to Kansas.

At every stop, local Republican leaders have clambered on the train to report that "the tide is swinging hard for you," or "the Social Security Act has cooked the Democrats in industrial towns here," or "Ohio is safely yours."

At Charleston, W. Va., the Middleburg auditorium was packed to the doors and the streets from the station to the big hall were jammed when Governor Landon stepped there last night. Governor Landon said in part:

Here in West Virginia I want to talk quietly about a few of the issues as they exist in the State.

I want to do this because one of the outstanding points of the campaign has been the interest of thousands of men and women who in ordinary years take no active part in political contests.

APPEALS TO WOMEN

We have been living for 150 years under our one constitution. We have maintained our republic and we have achieved a high measure of prosperity and happiness.

But we have not done this merely because our ancestors drew up a great document. We have done it because we were determined to keep a republic.

And our determination to keep a republic will be the measure of our success in the future.

In this task our women must play their part as well as our men. More than any one indeed. For always over all the world it has been the women rather than the men who have been the custodians of the home.

CHARTER OF LIBERTIES

But men and women alike must ever keep that our Constitution is the charter of our liberties. It is the charter that keeps our homes.

We have only to look across the ocean to see what can happen when the people have no such protection against the power of government.

To these people homes are no longer a place to which they can retire in security—a place to which they can think and speak as they please, in which they can worship as they please, in which they can bring up their children as they please.

In those countries homes are no longer protected by the law against invasion by the agents of any all-powerful government.

We must never forget that the loss of liberty in those countries followed depressions; that the trends in government which preceded this loss of liberty were similar in many respects to the trends in government which we see in America today.

Outstanding among these trends was the disregard of the old fashioned principle of making both ends meet, a principle which we all follow in our homes and which our women folk know even better than men.

This principle has been lost sight of in the last three years. We have seen waste and extravagance on an unparalleled scale. The people of West Virginia know this only too well.

They know there has been almost unlimited waste and extravagance in the handling of relief funds in this state.

WPA WORKERS COERCED

In this type of expenditure there are two issues involved. There is the spending of public moneys voted by the people for the relief of their less fortunate fellow citizens, for purposes which have nothing to do with relief.

You know what these purposes are. Relief funds are being sent to maintain a political machine in power. WPA workers are being intimidated and coerced.

This kind of practice violates the first principle of civic decency. When government itself follows this policy how can we teach the duties of good citizenship to our children?

The second issue involved in this misuse of public money is the plain dollars and cents side.

Let me show you how foolish and vicious waste in government affects the citizen. I am going to talk not in billions but in terms of nickels, dimes and dollar bills—in terms of the pay envelope and the household budget.

FLAYS HIDDEN TAXES

Last year the cost of all government in this country—federal, state and local—amounted on an average to about $200 a family.

Twenty-five years ago the cost of all these governments amounted to only about $140 a family.

In all this spending the federal government is the chief offender.

The government in Washington spends the equivalent of about $275 for every family a year. Think of this in terms of your household budget.

This $275 a year is not taken in direct taxes. Most of us never see a tax bill for the expenses of the federal government. We are borrowing half the money and we are getting through hidden taxes—taxes concealed in the cost of the things we buy.

In all this spending for federal purposes in the past three years there has been the element of little graft here, a half a million there—but most of the cost of our government has gone for honest purposes.

These taxes have increased the cost of living by raising prices. And the dangerous thing about them is that they go on increasing without our being aware that the government is eating into what we have to spend.

Today, out of every dollar it spends, it has to borrow 50 cents. This money will have to be paid back in the future—paid back by deductions from the household budget.

We cannot continue forever this policy of spending more than we take in. It leads inevitably to inflation—to impossibly high prices for the necessaries of life—to the destruction of our savings.

FIDELITY IS PEACE

Another question in mind is the thought of us all at this time especially of all wives and mothers. That is the question of peace.

If other nations should become involved in war while I am President, I pledge you I will do everything in my power to keep American out.

Let me tell you a piece of homely advice that was given me the first time I ran for office.

I had dropped into a store to buy a hat. The storekeeper was an old friend of mine. I had been dealing with him for years.

As he made the sale he said to me:

"Do you know why you're kept coming back to me all this time? Because I've always told you exactly what you were getting and you've always got your money's worth.

"Now you are offering the people a piece of political goods. You've got to see to it that the quality is what you say it is and worth it.

"If you let them down they won't be coming around to vote for you the next time."

KNOWS HIS POLICIES

Apply this wisdom to the present administration. Did it tell you frankly in advance what you were getting? And do you feel you got your money's worth?

Is it telling you now what it proposes to offer you if it should be re-elected? And do you want the quality of goods it carries in stock and that you are likely to — if it is returned to power?

In my campaign at home I have always tried to follow my old friend's advice. I have tried to tell the people exactly what I intended to do, and I have tried to do it.

In this campaign I have followed the same plan. I have told you I propose to go forward along the American way of life, and I have repeatedly stated the policies that in my opinion will guarantee us a safe course.

Next Tuesday the men and women of America will set the country on this course for the next four years.

You know what these purposes

COUGHLIN HITS DEAL

Flays Wage Tax, Favors Landon

Special to the Boston Evening American

New York, Oct. 31—Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, radio priest, today attacked the Social Security Act as "a gross betrayal of the working people," and impliedly advised his followers in New York State to vote for Governor Alfred M. Landon for President.

A letter to members of the National Union for Social Justice quotes Father Coughlin as saying at his Hippodrome rally:

"If I were a citizen of New York State, I would vote for Bloshfey and oppose Lehman.

"What are you going to do to Roosevelt?

"There is only one answer which a red-blooded American can give on election day. Register your protest at the polls."

Persons who conferred with Father Coughlin today interpreted the letter as an indirect indorsement of Landon in New York State.

In a statement attacking the social security act, Father Coughlin said:

"This monstrous act is Russian regimentation of the workers.

"Every workingman will be known by a number. The worker will be taxed on his wages and he will be taxed on the goods he produces and consumes. He will be taxed to pay a meager 'benefit' which he may never get. The act will have the effect of keeping wages down because the employers would be compelled to pay higher taxes on every increase of pay received by the workers."

G. O. P. SPENDS $7,488,718

Washington, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Republican National Committee reported today it had spent $1,302,686 in the ten days ended October 28.

Filing its last pre-election report with the clerk of the House, the committee revealed that its total disbursements since January 1 amounted to $6,868,863.

Expenditures by Republican senatorial and congressional committees brought the party's total outlay to $7,488,718.

This figure did not include spending by individual candidates or local party organizations.

A similar report filed yesterday by the Democratic National Committee showed a total party expenditure of $3,420,115, while the national committee has spent $3,496,301 since January 1.

T. Jefferson Coolidge, who resigned as Under Secretary of the Treasury after appointment by President Coolidge, in a letter to former Attorney General Edgar Allen Poe of Maryland, reveals that he is voting for Governor Landon because of his opposition to the fundamental principles of the New Deal.

The position of the former Under Secretary of the Treasury, a Brookline man, was made public by Poe in a radio program.

Coolidge in his letter said he has been an independent in politics, that up to this time he had seen no marked difference in the principles of the two major parties.

He said he voted for Roosevelt in 1932 and was honored by the under secretary appointment in 1934, serving two years.

"I see a great issue reaching the very fundamentals of our government to be decided by the people," his letter stated in part. "The issue is—shall we continue our government as it has been in the past, a government not of laws but of men, and indestructible union of sovereign states, a government of the people deciding their own local problems, or shall we turn over to Washington bureaus such great powers that they dominate the various governments of the country."

NEW AIR RAID TERRIFIES MADRID; DEATH TOLL 165

Madrid, Oct. 31 (AP)—Shrieking air raid sirens sent terified Madrid street crowds rushing pell mell for shelter early this afternoon as death from yesterday's insurgent air raid passed the 165 mark. However, no planes appeared immediately.

The warning was sounded at 1 p. m.

(Two hours later another air raid warning cut off an Associated Press telephone call between Madrid and London. The sound of sirens could be heard over the telephone, but there were no accompanying explosions before the communication was cut.)

The deaths of scores of persons, wounded in yesterday's sudden bombardment of the capital and its environs, swelled the toll of Friday's brief mission of terror.

216 PERSONS WOUNDED

Official reports, following a check of Madrid wards, disclosed 126 dead, including 80 women and 20 children, and 360 wounded.

Semi-official reports from suburban Getafe indicated 42 others had perished, with more than 150 injured.

Only 16 of those killed in the capital itself were identified.

The authorities rushed to quiet panicky reports with the announcement that insurgent airmen and not bombing dynamite throwers were responsible for yesterday's havoc.

The aerial massacre, chiefly of women and children as victims, stunned the city with its sudden, unheralded descent.

No siren alarms were sounded. No dreaming hum warned of the arrival of the high-flying bombers.

Mothers idly basking in the sun, watching their children play in a public park in the Glorieta del Ritban district, suddenly saw them ripped by bursting shrapnel.

GRUESOME MASSACRE

Eleven children were mowed down while playing in the Plaza Progreso, and the whining fragments of steel inflicted grizzly wounds among nearly a hundred grownups in the same area.

The great American rabbit will be proud to hear that in New York city his fur represents a business of ten million dollars a year. Other Americans will not be so proud to hear that the rabbit for business in New York is dominated by racketeers that throw acid on rabbit fur, fur merchants, and even on their children, if the merchants refuse to pay blackmail to racketeers.

Mr. Dewey, an able prosecutor, trying to stamp out racketeering, including labor union rackets in New York, mentions Mr. Louis (Lepke) Buchalter and Mr. Jacob (Gurrah) Shapiro, as heads of the rabbit skin racket, but, of course, he may do those gentlemen grave injustice. They say they are as innocent as the rabbits themselves.

The Rev. "The followers of Jesus numbered only twelve; Hitler's today number 70,000,000 and the number of them is increasing throughout the world."

More than one branch of the Christian church complains of persecution and this would seem a propitious time for some great miracle, some more plagues, perhaps, to intimidate enemies of religion.

No one else could have written Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme; Le Medecin Malgre Lui; Les Precieuses Ridicules, or other Moliere plays, whereas moving picture scenarios might be written by "many men, many women, and many children," as Samuel Johnson said of the poems of Ossian. The Madrid battle fronts were quiet today as government troops rested before renewing the assault on Torrejon de Velasco and in the Sesena area, south of the capital.

The newspaper Claridad today published the text of proclamations dropped by insurgent planes in previous raids, reading:

"Spaniards! The capture of Madrid by nationalist (Fascist) troops being near, you are warned that 10 of your people will be shot for each assassination you commit. Do not forget we hold more than 1800 Red (Socialist) militiamen prisoners in addition to numerous hostages in many provinces. In Madrid alone, 5% who wounded will answer for your crimes."

The reference to "25,000 wounded" ostensibly meant all injured Madrid government defenders who would be left behind when the capital was evacuated.

Italy to Double Naval Personnel; Fears Britain

Rome, Oct. 31 (AP)—Italy intends to double its naval personnel, authoritative sources said today, preparing to fleet any threat from England in the Mediterranean.

Naval sources also disclosed plans for development and expansion of the Italian war fleet.

Doubling of the naval personnel, just increased from 50,000 to 60,000 men, is intended to match Britain's naval rearmament in order to maintain the ratio of Italian naval strength to the British fleet.

Italy to Force Spain Island Revolt, Is Claim

Paris, Oct. 31 (AP)—The newspaper L'Oeuvre reported today that Italian officers, with their forces controlling the Spanish Balearic islands, planned to force their secession from Spain.

The officers, the newspaper reported, decided to conduct a plebiscite committing the populace to a "declaration of independence."

BONUS FUNDS EXEMPT FROM CREDITORS

Cash obtained by surrender of soldiers' bonus bonds is exempt from court action by creditors, according to a far-reaching ruling handed down today by Judge Hugh D. McLellan in United States district court here.

His decision freed World War veteran Herbert Mahar of Adams, who was given a jail sentence when he refused to obey a Massachusetts court order directing him to pay a debt with $200 of his bonus money.

SETS PRECEDENT

Federal Judge McLellan's ruling was hailed by lawyers here as establishing a precedent of national importance.

Judge McLellan acted on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

The petition was brought in behalf of Veteran Mahar by the latter's counsel, Attorney Nathan Efron of Boston.

Efron argued that the clear intent of Congress was to exempt from civil process by creditors not only bonus bonds but also their cash proceeds.

Equipping the bonds themselves, and not their cash value, he held, would be an obvious legal inconsistency.

His contention was supported by Judge McLellan's ruling of today.

CONTEMPT SENTENCE

The Adams district court order, contending Veteran Mahar be jailed for ten days for contempt, was issued July 6 of this year by Judge Henry L. Harrington.

Mahar was not actually committed to jail, but was released on his own recognizance under bonds of $1000, pending Judge McLellan's decision in the habeas corpus action.

The habeas corpus writ, now issued, releases Mahar and invalidates the lower court process against him by his creditor of record.

The latter is Florence Der De R. Boon, administrator.

WPA Workers Hear Landon Boost

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 31 (CNS)—WPA workers in Pennsylvania today were told by G. O. P. State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, "a vote for Landon is a vote for political freedom and that best of all kind of economic independence—a steady job at good pay.

In a statement Taylor addressed WPA workers:

"These New Dealers already have tried to make you a mere political tool in their hands. Vote for Roosevelt and you help lock the shackles that are already on our wrists and ankles."

Hunt Youth, Lost Girl

N. E., N. Y., Scoured In Auto Search

Northfield, Oct. 31—Search was being made today for a New York State youth, believed to hold the key to the disappearance of 14-year-old Phyllis Manning, of Greenfield, who disappeared from the Northfield Seminary campus Tuesday night.

Friends of the missing girl and a local garage man furnished police and state detectives with information which enabled them to flash a description of the man and his auto throughout New England and New York State in their hunt.

Not so fortunate were the investigators in the other phase of their probe of Northfield's twin mystery with clues entirely lacking concerning the whereabouts of 17-year-old Ruth McGowan, who has been missing since August 17.

Report Denied

Hope for her safety was aroused when it was reported her sister Dorothy, a Simmons College student, had stated her missing sister was living near Boston. This hope collapsed, however, when the sister denied the report.

The New York man, according to information in the hands of investigators, met the Manning girl in Greenfield almost two weeks ago and had seen her several times up to the night of her disappearance.

Probers have been informed that last Tuesday night, the man in question visited a Greenfield garage to have the headlights on his auto repaired and, in the course of preliminary conversation, remarked that he had a date at the Northfield Seminary swimming pool.

Mother Ill

It is now believed the man drove to Northfield, met the girl as she was leaving the gymnasium to meet George Clark, son of a Deerfield doctor, who was to drive her home, and induced her to enter his car instead.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Grace Manning, has become ill over her daughter's absence and insists she has been kidnaped.

She points out that the girl would have communicated with her by this time if she was not being held against her will.

Salamanca, Spain, Oct. 31—The life and death struggle between Reds and Whites in Spain, which for three months has threatened to involve all Europe, today took a new turn.

General Franco's government intimated in an official communique the Nationalists will shoot down French civil airplanes if they fly across Nationalist territory without permission. The communique said:

"It appears that certain pilots of 'Air France,' flying the line from Toulouse to Alicante to Madrid, propose to fly over a section of Spanish Nationalist territory with intentions of provoking an international incident.

"Spain's Nationalist government refuses any responsibility for what may happen to such airplanes."

SHIP STRIKERS CONSENT TO CONFERENCE

to the idle list headed by 27,000 marine employes.

Ships heading for ports from San Diego to Seattle faced tieup on arrival. Atlantic and Gulf marine commerce faced a spread of the walkout to those areas.

San Francisco officials, mindful of the bloody 83-day strike in 1934, took "emergency" steps to meet the situation, precipitated Thursday midnight by a general walkout of marine union labor.

Federal officials here and in Washington strove to bring accord.

The strike had repercussions in far-away Alaska and Hawaii, it disrupted plans of hundreds of seagoing passengers and caused revision of mail movements. It even threatened to interrupt football schedules.

At midnight 57 vessels were strike-bound here. Another 57 were held in North Pacific ports, including Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., and Portland, Ore. Twenty-two were tied up at San Pedro and San Diego and six in Hawaii.

San Francisco also saw threatened by a strike of 1000 warehousemen in grocery storage plants, demanding higher wages and a new working agreement.

In Seattle, the West Coast Lumbermen's Association estimated 50,000 lumber workers would be forced out of work if the marine strike lasted a week.

"Mills have been forced to curtail production to not less than one-fourth," the association said.

Many of its 202 mills in Washington and Oregon were reported closing down last night.

New York, Oct. 31 (INS)—A wave of "sit-down" strikes, labor's latest technique in conflicts with industry, today tied up three ships in New York harbor and delayed the sailing of six others as rank-and-file seamen sought to force their union into ordering a general walkout of maritime workers on the Atlantic seaboard.

Success or failure of the move, initiated immediately on declaration of the mass strike on the Pacific coast, will be decided tonight at a meeting of the International Seamen's Union here. Backed by a vote of the seamen's defense committee, of which he is chairman, Joseph Curran is fighting for a general coastwise strike in sympathy with the Pacific workers.

LANDON DRIVE GAINS POWER IN NEW YORK

By JOHN T. LAMBERT

Special to Boston Evening American

New York, Oct. 31.—Swept to the high crest of enthusiasm by the extraordinary New York demonstrations, Governor Alfred M. Landon's campaign for President took on the confident appearance of a "victory parade" today.

This was the optimistic observation made by Chairman John Hamilton and other Republican leaders who remained here for major strategy conferences while Landon swung into West Virginia and other pivotal states for the grand finale of his vigorous campaign.

Hamilton declared that Landon will "possibly" poll the enormous total of 28,000,000 votes on Tuesday. This would be an overwhelming repudiation of the New Deal on the assumption that 45,000,000 votes will be cast.

New York, with its false reputation for cynicism, was itself amazed by the overwhelming demonstrations it gave Landon. The great city accorded him a royal welcome, which in warmth, affection and admiration has seldom been surpassed.

It was noticeable that among the 25,000 people in Madison Square Garden and the thousands who blocked the streets outside, not a discordant voice was heard.

PEOPLE IMPRESSED

The people of New York seemed deeply impressed by the vigor of Landon in his campaign and by his own manifestation of good sportsmanship. When the great crowd booed his first mention of the President, Landon raised his hand for silence and by a shake of his head indicated disapproval.

Surprised by the high favor won by Landon, Democratic Chairman James A. Farley and other New Deal chieftains today began to assess the damage done to their own campaign in the Empire State. Privately, they admitted the ardor of the reception of Landon was "astonishing."

There are some political experts who believe that the presidential campaign will be won and lost in New York. Private Republican polls indicate that Landon will come down to the city line with a lead of 820,000. The New Deal relies upon Tammany to give Roosevelt a 1,000,000 majority in the city.

TAMMANY LOSES CONTROL

Tammany has formally indorsed Roosevelt, but there are deep trends of bitterness here that the Tammany sachems cannot control. There is a growing distrust of the Communistically-inclined philosophies allegedly attached to the New Deal. The fear of Communism is being hammered home at innumerable political rallies and from some church pulpits.

Former Governor Alfred E. Smith is understood to have aroused a large following to the alleged dangers of the New Deal. The Jeffersonian Democrat organization has its largest membership in New York. Justice William F. Bleakley, the Republican candidate for governor, is waging an impressive campaign.

Father Coughlin has advised his followers here to support Bleakley and, since the Lemke ticket has been ruled off the ballot, he has by implication, advised his people to vote for Landon.

In the rural areas of the state the strength of Landon astounds the political observers.

Increased impetus has been given the Republican drive by the Literary Digest poll, which shows that Landon will not only carry New York, but 32 states in all and will be triumphantly elected.

DRUGGIST TAX HIT ON RADIO

Denouncing the excise or so-called luxury tax which the druggist is obliged to collect when he sells cosmetics, Congressman Joseph Martin, Jr., speaking over the air in the "Voice of the Apothecary Program," declared the tax to be wrong in principle.

"No one industry should be forced to bear more of the burden of taxes than another," he said. "Many of these so-called luxury taxes have been harmful to industry and prevented employment."

He declared that the drug store is surrounded by restrictions swinging from both state and federal laws.

Congressman Martin, eastern campaign manager for the Republican national presidential ticket, held that the type of law which interferes least with individual freedom is the most ideal type of law.

Lest We Forget:

Skyrocket Sweep of D. R. Richberg

By HAROLD LORD VARNEY

For more than two years, the rise of Donald R. Richberg in the Roosevelt administration was meteoric in its swift advance. The last 18 months have seen Donald dismally sinking into oblivion.

Less than two years ago, we saw him swaggering into the meeting of the National Industrial Council with all the arrogance of a high ambassador from the White House, and hurling his "damn the torpedoes" outburst at the dinner plates of the economic royalists.

Today, while the nation rocks with New Deal oratory, Donald has not been called upon by his chief for a single speech. His fade-out is all the more pathetic since he does not even have the consolation of a New Deal payroll connection.

The surprising thing is that although Richberg has squared the circle by being both a Leftist and a Rightist during his brief span of greatness, it was his rightism which finally destroyed him. The story of his fall is an interesting tale, and it throws a flood of revealing light upon the social forces behind the Roosevelt regime.

Union Lawyer

Richberg entered the Roosevelt picture in 1933 with a luminous left wing halo. He had been the intimate in Chicago of Harold L. Ickes, Clarence Darrow, and Mr. Carl D. Thompson's public ownership coterie. He had been a widely publicized trade union lawyer. He was strong for social planning, and redistribution, and all the other wishful cure-alls of the 1933 New Deal.

Teaming up with General Hugh S. Johnson in the NRA, he was an ardent cheer-leader for the "cracking down" and "dead cat" strategy of the early NRA. Castor and Pollux were not more devoted than were Johnson and Richberg in this period of the Roosevelt revolution.

None roared louder for the economic guillotine in 1933 than the strident-voiced Donald.

"The social revolution is here," he shouted over the radio in the first summer of the NRA. A year later he was still shaking an index finger at a Chicago business audience and warning that "a blind, reactionary government could breed a revolt in 30 days" if the Roosevelt program were jettisoned.

However, when Johnson entered his eclipse, Richberg speedily shifted to the anti-Johnson side. The general still explodes into sulphurous profanity when he speaks of the double-crossing which the virtuous Donald gave him on this occasion.

Then, for a brief interval, Richberg found himself on the summit of the New Deal Pyramid. Master of the NRA, designated by the doting Mr. Roosevelt as co-ordinator of all the emergency agencies, the erstwhile labor lawyer found himself hailed everywhere as the "assistant president."

Reaches Peak

It was an intoxicating experience for this obscure political parvenu. At a leap, he had reached a pinnacle for which political wheelhorses strive a lifetime in vain. It is not surprising that the bewildered Donald soon felt the vertigo of greatness, and that his feet stumbled on the threshold of this supreme opportunity.

Forgetting that the single asset which had brought him so quickly to the top had been his reputed power with organized labor, Richberg attempted to outsmart everybody. He set up as the administration buffer for organized business, and he attempted to negotiate a dangerous "middle" position between both extremes.

Of course he failed. It didn't add up. Business would not trust Mr. Richberg's death-bed repentance, and labor turned on him furiously as an apostate. Presently Mr. Roosevelt himself wearied of him, and Donald found himself out in the bitter darkness.

Perhaps the greatest Richberg blunder was to run head-on into the plans of John L. Lewis—in many instances the most powerful single figure behind the administration. When in 1934, Lewis openly denounced Richberg, it was obvious to everyone but himself that it was only a question of time when the Roosevelt laborites would succeed in driving him from the administration.

When Mr. Richberg, overestimating his legal prowess, insisted upon thrusting his head out by personally handling the all-vital NRA case in the Supreme Court, he gave the President the opportunity to decapitate him gracefully when the NRA collapsed.

Bitter Pill

The salt bitterness of his debacle was sharpened by the realization that he would probably have been elevated to the Supreme Court had a vacancy occurred during the two years of his ascendancy. From "assistant president" and presumptive Supreme Court appointee to his present obscure retirement has been a heartbreaking fall.

Like Machiavelli, Mr. Richberg can only sit and meditate upon the thanklessness of princes.

However, it is a pleasure to note that there has always been a lighter and literary side to the Richberg personality. Between crusades, he has been known to toss off a volume of poems, mostly about Richberg.

In his happier days, he was once persuaded to favor us with his autobiography, "The Tents of the Mighty." As we turn its pages now, we are astonished to learn what a fateful and unguessed role this poetry-writing Chicago lawyer has enacted in our national politics during the last quarter of a century.

We learn that, unsuspected by the sleeping gentry of the press, it is Richberg who has been the maker and breaker of the mighty of our times.

Thus, as we read the "Tents," we learn on page 46 that Theodore Roosevelt turned to Mr. Richberg (then 30 years old) for ideas for an OUTLOOK article. On page 44, we see Roosevelt submitting a letter to Richberg asking, "is it all right?"

On page 72, Raymond Tobins finds it necessary to ask Mr. Richberg to write his keynote speech for the Bull Moose national convention. On page 82, we find President Wilson copying one of Richberg's pungent phrases in his 1919 message.

Spies on Trail

As the years passed, spies began to dog Mr. Richberg's footsteps everywhere and "it was confidently expected that I would be rubbed out."

On page 135, the elder La Follette calls him to Washington to help lay down the lines of his 1924 campaign for the presidency. Alas, Senator La Follette did not follow the Richberg prompting and it is now history that he went down to a desolating defeat.

It is regrettable that this charming self-revelation of the real Mr. Richberg reaches FINIS before the great man had been summoned to Washington to become the grand vizier of the New Deal administration.

Let us hope that some day Mr. Richberg will conclude it. Particularly, let us hope that he will tell us the story of that incredible tragi-comedy of American history—the NRA.

When he writes the story—if he is frank—Mr. Richberg will disclose to us what was actually in the Roosevelt mind that delirious summer while Johnson was cracking down and Richberg was proclaiming revolutions.

And if he tells us the story which we suspect, he will give us a pen picture of a president who lost his faith in America in a supreme national crisis, and who surrendered himself to a motley crew of leftists, technocrats and economic charlatans.

Only there is little likelihood that Richberg will ever write this concluding chapter. For he was a member of the crew!

NEWSPAPER STRIKE

Manager Hits Union Claims

(Special to Boston Evening American)

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 31—The management of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, closed down since August 13 because of mob violence following a strike of Guild workers, issued a statement last night declaring that its position had been misrepresented by Ves Heyl, president of the Seattle Mailers' Union.

In a statement today Heyl said his union had been "unable to obtain any satisfaction from the Post-Intelligencer," and that the union was prepared to protest any attempt to remove the Post-Intelligencer from the Seattle Central Labor Council's "unfair list."

Quoting one paragraph from a letter he received this week from J. J. Callaghan, business manager of the Post-Intelligencer, to the effect that conditions which existed in the Post-Intelligencer mailing room would again prevail when and if the newspaper resumed publication, Heyl asserted it proved "that the management does not intend to live up to its obligations" under the existing agreement.

In reply, the Post-Intelligencer management statement says:

"The utter unfairness of Mr. Heyl's stand is indicated by the fact that he quoted only one paragraph from the letter he received on October 24 from J. J. Callaghan, business manager of the newspaper."

The statement of the newspaper management gives this letter in full, the last paragraph of which says:

"Should publication be resumed the Post-Intelligencer management will be glad to negotiate in the usual manner with the representatives of the Seattle Mailers' Union."

The incongruity of the contention that the management of the Post-Intelligencer should negotiate a new contract with the Mailers' Union while the paper is in a state of suspension is apparent to all fair-minded persons, the management holds.

ROOSEVELT LAUDS NRA, AAA BUT HIDES FUTURE PLANS

By GEORGE DURNO

New York, Oct. 31 (INS)—Having upheld his alphabetical agencies as the emergency institutions that "substituted food for starvation; work for idleness; hope instead of dull despair," President Roosevelt put the finishing touches today on the final public address of his re-election campaign.

The President will speak in Madison Square Garden tonight, his remarks going over a nation-wide hook-up. (In Boston, WNAC, 9:30 to 10:30 p. m.) It was understood he would combine into this speech a renewal of all the attacks he has been making on the "Republican leadership" for "pay-envelope propaganda," for "the market-basket campaign," and for the inference that insurance policies and bank accounts would be unsafe unless Governor Landon was elected.

The President launched his last active campaigning here today by visiting the Democratic National Headquarters before swinging through the Bronx and Westchester Counties.

Mr. Roosevelt ignored the "challenge" of Governor Landon to state his position on the future of NRA and AAA in the speech he made last night in Brooklyn.

Significantly, however, he listed the two agencies outlawed by the Supreme Court as among those which would make the voters say on next Tuesday "that that was a job well done!"

HEADS FOR HYDE PARK

Immediately after the Madison Square Garden speech tonight, Mr. Roosevelt entrains for his Hudson River home at Hyde Park, where he will vote and await election returns—first making one final appeal to the voters over the radio Monday night.

The President's theme at Brooklyn, where he received a third rousing reception in recent days, was that the New Deal has "united all classes in the nation in a program for the nation."

"Every group in our national life has benefited because what we have done for each group has produced benefits for every other group," the executive asserted.

"In our policies there are no distinctions between them. There will be none. If we are in trouble we are all of us in trouble together. If we are to be prosperous, if we are to be secure, we must all be prosperous and secure together."

Pointing out that 77 Republican Congressmen voted for, and 18 against, while the Senate was registering 15 G. O. P. votes to 5, in favor of the Social Security Act, the President once more assailed his opposition for its efforts to undermine this legislation.

CLAIMS TAX PLANS GOOD

Reiterating another campaign message he has borne upon frequently, the President said:

"By our tax policy and by regulating financial markets, we loosened the grip which monopolies had fastened upon independent American business. We have begun also to free American business and American labor from the unfair competition of a small unscrupulous minority. We established by statute a curb upon the overwhelming power and unholy practices of some untilities holding companies."

Before a roaring throng in the Brooklyn Academy of Music President Roosevelt promised to "carry forward" the New Deal's record of "actual achievement" in the next four years.

This was the full extent of his disclosure of his future plans.

The President brought down the house when he departed from his text to read a telegram he said he received on the train. It said:

"In the morning the sunflower turns to the east; in the afternoon it turns to the west, and it goes to seed before November."

With supreme confidence, the President predicted the American people will say on election day that the New Deal's job was "well done" and its future policy "is their policy for the future."

He mentioned by name the National Recovery Administration and Agricultural Adjustment Administration as among the agencies that helped "our stalled economic engine to get under way again."

But he did not reveal what he proposes to do about them if re-elected.

HIDES PLANS

There remains only a remote possibility that the President will meet the challenge of Governor Alfred M. Landon to state his position openly on NRA and AAA revival when he winds up his campaign tonight at Madison Square Garden.

The moment the President appeared in the small Brooklyn hall, the crowd rose to its feet and yelled for 12 minutes, chanting "We want Roosevelt."

When the demonstration subsided, Governor Herbert H. Lehman denounced the Republican "Old Guard" and called the President the man "we all love and admire."

The President, in return, gave Lehman his unqualified endorsement, insisting "there is not one chance in a thousand" that his home state would "turn its government back to the Old Guard."

With equal vehemence the President offered another defense of the social security act, describing it as a "new Magna Charta for those who work."

The President dwelt at length on the efforts of the "New Deal" to "restore prosperity and end abuses," and bring about "this better, happier America."

UPHOLDS NRA

A big job, the President said, was to get "all four wheels" of the nation's economic machine started at once.

In this endeavor, the President said, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the National Recovery Administration and a long list of other federal agencies were brought into being.

In his only explanatory reference to the purposes of NRA, he said:

"We set up a national labor relations board to improve working conditoins and seek industrial peace."

Declaring every group has benefited from the New Deal's efforts, the President said:

"An equally important task remains—to go forward, to consolidate and to strengthen these gains—to close up the gap by destroying glaring inequalities of opportunity and of security which, in the recent past, have set group against group and region against region.

"By our policies for the future we will carry forward this program of unity."

The court ordered Shannon to disgorge his winnings from Toale to settle the obligation on the bank assignment.

Crossley Poll Shows:

Gov. Landon Leads As Voting Nears

By ARCHIBALD M. CROSSLEY

Director of the Crossley National Poll for the Boston Evening American

Copyright, 1936, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

New York, Oct. 31—Tomorrow's release of the Crossley poll totals in the Boston Sunday Advertiser ends the campaign story, as far as the regular week-by-week poll is concerned. Monday, the day before election, will be published the results of the nation-wide poll taken in a single day by the 600 trained investigators of this organization.

The campaign may now be briefly summarized. At the outset, Governor Landon faced the odds that always are in favor of an existing administration, coupled with the immovable Democratic tradition of the Solid South.

Quite early, most of the far-Western States showed heavy poll majorities adding them to the Solid South in the Roosevelt column.

This was, at the outset, only partically offset by Landon leads in New England and a few other States. But neither Roosevelt nor Landon had enough votes to assure election—266 electoral votes are required for a majority—and it early became obvious that the real battle-ground lay in about 20 important states, covering the East, the Great Lakes region and the Middle West, which were "pivotal" in the sense that they held the answer to the nation's verdict.

Landon's Rise

Landon had to carry the heavy majority of these, Roosevelt but a few. The drama of the campaign has consisted in matching the Landon curve rise slowly, reflecting his campaign impression, until he led slightly or was tied in state after state throughout this "pivotal" list.

Today there are nearly 20 states in which the election hangs by a hair. Statistical variations have been slight. Tuesday's will be an election in which every vote in "pivotal" states may be the "pivotal" vote.

(Watch tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser for Mr. Crossley's final prediction before a summing-up of the entire poll survey.)

Discovery of Communistic propaganda in the desks of five federal relief workers in the Community Service branch of the Works Progress Administration was revealed today.

The propaganda was found in desks at the project headquarters, 739 Boylston street, by a patriotic ex-newspaperman, who was also employed on Community Service, it was learned.

Instead of being "fired," however, the Communist sympathizers were simply transferred to the writers' project, and thus their pay was automatically increased from $94 to $130 a month.

The former newspaperman was shifted to other work, for which he was ill suited, and was shortly afterward dropped from the relief rolls entirely.

RADICALS ON JOB

Community Service, for which huge allotments of relief funds were made, is one of the Works Progress branches in which there are many sympathizers with radical political tendencies.

The case of a Community Service lecture advocating Communism at a meeting in Dorchester is well known. At the same time that such activities as this were taking place, it was learned, a member of the national guard, who asked for two weeks' leave for the summer encampment was told he would have to take his chances of getting back on his relief job again.

One of the chorus directors, in the Community Service, is a native of England and a non-citizen. Another high-salaried official is a former Socialist Party candidate. The use of Works Progress Administration employes as "supers" in the radicals' play, "Stevedore," is also a matter of record.

CLOSING THREATENED

One of the Community Service reading rooms is situated in the quarters of a Democratic Club in the South End. Several others are situated over taverns and in one instance, it is understood, police threatened to close both the tavern and the reading room, because beer was served from one to the other.

The Boston Park Department, after a brief experience, refused to sponsor the Community Service program, with so much boondoggling, and the Boston Welfare Department is not the official sponsor, although the Welfare Department naturally supplies no funds. No sponsor could be found to supply funds, as required under the Works Progress regulations, and so, in the case of this branch, the requirement was waived.

Supervisors and co-ordinators, in charge of the game rooms and other activities, declare they have always been forced to work many hours more each week than the regulations stipulate.

VOLPE EXPOSES VOTE THIEVES TONIGHT

Frank G. Volpe, former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County will expose on the radio tonight the system under which "repeaters" are able to "steal" votes of legitimate residents of Massachusetts in State elections.

At the same time Mr. Volpe, who is a member of the group of lawyers directing the campaign of the Republican State Committee against illegal voting on Tuesday will urge every citizen of the Commonwealth to go to the polls early on that day in order that no "repeater" may have opportunity to cast a ballot in their names.

The Volpe message will be heard over Station WNAC at 6:15 o'clock tonight.

Another Fashionable Audience Greets New Coward Plays

By BETTY ALDEN

OF COURSE, though no one has been able to perceive it as yet, Noel Coward's supply of ingenuity must be limited . . . so it would be impossible to ask that he present three original one-act plays every two or three nights . . .

But if it were possible, and the nine plays which he has presented here this week at the Colonial Theater could be taken as samples of his genius, Mr. Coward and Gertrude Lawrence could open a stock company right here in Boston and go on having their enjoyable "opening" nights and drawing brilliant social audiences ad infinitum . . .

Mrs. Frederick Bruce Robinson

Again last evening there were any number of social celebrities in the audience which packed the Colonial to the doors . . . Ambassador Grew and his niece, Mrs. Frederick Bruce Robinson (Ethel Grew), leaned forward in their seats before the curtain rose to chat with Eleo Sears . . . The latter in one of her infrequent appearances in evening clothes . . . a black crepe gown with wide hem of royal blue . . .

Mrs. Randolph Morgan Appleton was a distinguished figure in black shirred chiffon with pearls . . . The N. Penrose Hallowells, Jr., and Anne Howard and her recently remarried mother, Mrs. Lawrence Foster, were other prominent North Shoreites in the throng . . . Betsy Jaques celebrated the eve of the big game by looking very attractive in a black velvet with wide band of white lace down the front . . . Colleen Moore, custodian of the little fairy castle, wore real bouvardia pinned on her black turban as well as on the shoulder of her mink wrap . . .

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Pickman, Jr., Mrs. Richard C. Storey, Jean Sears, Mrs. William Tudor Gardiner, I. Tucker Burr, Jr., and his daughter, Mrs. Hobart Spalding, were also present . . .

* * *

Fortunately the wheels of activity in the Boston Morning Musicales committee are well oiled and working so smoothly that practically everything is in readiness for the first concert on November 18 . . . for with everyone just recovering from the elections, very little serious business will be conducted at Mrs. Myer's annual autumn luncheon for the committee in charge of mechanics at her home next Wednesday noon . . .

The feature of this luncheon will be the presence of five new members of the musicales committee . . . two of whom are graduating from the job of head ushering and will be the youngest in age as well as years of service on the committee . . . They are Constance Turner and Madeleine Powers . . . the other new members who will be welcomed at Mrs. Myers' luncheon are Mrs. Samuel C. Bennett, of Milton, Mrs. Philip Reed of Dedham and Mrs. Rodney W. Brown of Andover . . .

Taylor-Valentine Ceremony

CHARLOTTE VALENTINE, daughter of Mrs. Robert Grosvenor Valentine of Pinckney street, is changing her name this afternoon to Mrs. Thomas Taylor, Jr., in Leslie Lindsey Memorial Chapel . . .

Mr. Frank W. Grinnell, a close friend of the bride's father, the late Hon. R. G. Valentine, commissioner of Indian affairs, will escort her down the aisle and when Dr. Osgood asks "Who giveth this woman in marriage"? Mrs. Valentine will step out from her front pew to place her daughter's hand in Mr. Taylor's . . .

The bride, wearing traditional ivory satin with a rose point lace yoke, is carrying white orchids, and her long tulle veil falls from a cap of rose point . . .

Leslie Grinnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grinnell, is the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids are Eleanor Chamberlain of Virginia, and Mrs. Henry Thayer of Columbia, S. C., sister of the bridegroom . . . Miss Grinnell's gown of wood rose velvet has a high medici collar, a slight train, and a velvet hat to match . . . The others are wearing similar gowns and hats of pale green velvet, and all are carrying arm bouquets of African daisies . . .

The wedding reception is being held at 40 Commonwealth avenue, where Mrs. Valentine, gowned in gray velvet with a matching hat and orchid corsage, and Mrs. Taylor, Sr., whose costume is of blue crystelle velvet with black hat and orchids, will assist the bridal couple in receiving . . .

Following their honeymoon the newlyweds will live in Cambridge . . . Mr. Taylor's parents have come on from Columbia, S. C., for the wedding, and are house guests of Mrs. Valentine . . .

Mr. Marion Coles of Chestnut Hill is serving as best man and several members of the Ames family are among the ushers . . . Amyas Ames has come from New York to usher and Oliver and John are both on the list . . . Also George Bingham of Cambridge and John Coolidge . . .

Constance Babcock Bride Today

CONSTANCE BABCOCK'S WEDDING this afternoon to Warren Richards is a somewhat smaller affair . . . taking place at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hollingsworth Babcock in Harvard . . .

Constance is wearing a white velvet gown with rose point lace veil and a bouquet of bouvardia . . . Her only attendant, Betsy Burke of Washington, D. C., has chosen a gown of pale green taffeta with African daisies in her hair and a cluster of them in her bouquet . . .

Pearson Cummin of Philadelphia is the best man . . . Miss Babcock, a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club, made her debut several seasons ago at the Chilton Club . . . Mr. Richards, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Richards of Wilmington, Delaware, graduated from Harvard last June and belongs to Hasty Pudding, Iroquois, and Fly Clubs . . .

DEBUTANTE Serves as Model at Benefit

MISS BETSY SHRIGLEY, the debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred R. Shrigley of Boston and Marblehead Neck, made her debut at a large luncheon in early autumn and is a provisional member of the Junior League. Miss Shrigley passed in her modeling the other afternoon in the South End Day Nursery School fashion show to have her picture taken in one of the fetching outfits.

Film Star's Beauty Tips

Anne Shirley Keeps Her Weight at Par

By DONNA GRACE

HOLLYWOOD—"I was brought up on the stage. It is the only life I ever knew. My first appearance was when I was carried on as an infant, and then I did child parts until I grew up."

This is the favorite theme of many of the real troupers and famous stage stars we meet today . . . and it is true of so many whose parents were people of the stage. Now we find veterans of the world of drama who have never appeared in a theater at all. They are those who were the babies of the screen.

Yesterday we met one of those modern young stars whose whole life was spent before the camera rather than the footlights. She is Anne Shirley, Hollywood's youngest star (not counting Shirley Temple and the babies of the screen). She is only 18 years of age, and she, too, was carried on the set as an infant and has really been before the camera ever since.

This remarkable young girl is favored with great beauty as well as intelligence, and even that alone would bring her recognition. She is 5 feet, 3½ inches, which is an ideal height for any girl, and usually weighs a little less than 100 pounds, and has a beautiful figure. Her hair is a beautiful golden red of a brilliancy that her friends call flame. "The flame-hair lily" is what they call her. Her smooth ivory skin seems even lovelier in contrast to the glorious hair coloring.

We asked her about the care of her hair and were not surprised to hear that she did it all herself. She is the clever type of a young miss who has made a study of her own features and knows what hair styles are the most becoming and just how to dress her own hair.

She wears an extra long bob, just a little longer than the average Hollywood length, and with a side part and only a suggestion of a curl on the top. The ends are finished in large rolling curls. She rolls them up on the little metal curlers. Let nobody use the large size rollers to avoid the tight rolls that are no longer fashionable. One or two shampoos a week, she thinks, are necessary to keep the hair attractive.

There is no indication of the constant use of make-up having injured her skin in any way, but she has been careful to give it good care.

Acidity Is Symptom of Disease

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

A great deal has been written about acidity and acidosis, but too little is said about the difference between the two conditions.

Let me tell you about acidity. This is an extremely common complaint of most persons who suffer from any form of indigestion.

As a rule, acidity, or "hyperacidity," as the doctors refer to it, is found in highly-strung individuals. They are careless eaters and pay too little attention to the importance of regularity in meals.

This is not a disease, but is a symptom of some stomach disturbance. It is due to an increased secretion of hydrochloric acid, one of the juices normally found in the stomach. The stomach processes go on as they should except in those individuals who, as I said, eat hurriedly and who are under constant mental and physical strain.

But acidity is also a symptom of stomach ulcer, gastritis, gall bladder disease and cancer of the stomach.

Relief of the discomfort may be obtained in this way, but it is only temporary. The danger is that the underlying cause is hidden or ignored. In many instances this is an important fact when the sufferer consults with the doctor, little help can be obtained.

The victim of hyperacidity usually has a poor and unpleasant taste in his mouth. This may be present between meals, but as a rule it occurs soon after eating. Bear in mind that such uncomfortable symptoms as persistent sour taste, "biliousness," indigestion and excessive gas formation, all signs of hyperacidity, demand immediate medical attention.

Miss Schell Makes Bow At Tea

AS soon as today's Harvard game was over the debs and their escorts hurried across the Larz Anderson bridge to the Cambridge Boat Club where Miss Esther Winslow Schell's tea dance was already in progress.

Miss Schell wore a gown of flame velvet made with a high neck, short puffed sleeves and a long full skirt, for her formal bow in Boston society. Mrs. Erwin Rockell Schell, who, with Mr. Schell, gave the party in honor of their daughter, wore black velvet with an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Frederic L. Day of Cambridge was in charge of the pourers who presided over large brass samovars, rather than the usual tea pots.

Assisting her were Phebe Perry of Westerly, R. I., Abby Sharpless, Eleanor Bischoff, Anne Forbes, Eleanor Coolidge, Priscilla Little, Jane Wellington and Deshler Rogers.

Several of Mrs. Schell's friends also assisted at the samovars. Among them were, Mrs. Harry M. Goodwin of Brookline, Mrs. Karl Taylor Compton, Mrs. Samuel Eliot, Mrs. Charles Peabody, Mrs. Bradley Dewey and Miss Abigail A. Elliot, all of Cambridge, and Mrs. Robert M. Blackall of Milton.

Arthur H. Brooks, Jr., acted as head usher and in his corps were George F. Watts, Lawrence A. Nowell, II, Lane Blackwell, Jr., Hardy Thippen, Edouard Sandoz and Joseph R. Watkins, Jr.

Miss Schell, who is now studying at Radcliffe graduated from the Cambridge School in Kendall Green.

WOMEN IN LOVE

By Mae Christie

CHAPTER 18

"We dance well together, don't you think?" She lifted her green eyes, whose heavy lids were touched with jade-green shadow paste artistically. Pale green powder misted the flush upon her cheeks.

"We certainly do."

The music swelled about them. Renita snuggled closer to him. She closed her eyes.

At that moment, Gordon saw the window-dresser leading Ann to the door of the ballroom, and Ann stopping to speak to Paul Bradley.

It didn't mean anything, of course. And yet—

He Keeps Tabs

Five minutes later, Ann was back in the ballroom, dancing with the merchandise-manager.

Over Renita's head, Gordon kept tabs.

They looked marvelous together. There was no denying it, though Gordon loathed Paul Bradley.

They danced the encore.

It was the famous waltz from "Naughty Marietta" . . . named "Sweet Mystery of Life." . . .

Gad! if only he himself had been dancing that exquisite number with Ann!

Why, in heaven's name, had he come here with Renita Parrish, who was going to be a regular incubus!

Oh! to get rid of her!

It was a good hour before he was able to get a dance with the other girl.

She had promised all kinds of people, which, thought Gordon scrobblishly, was carrying affability too far. And twice, during that period, she had danced with the merchandise-manager.

"Look here! Let's sit this out! It's stiflingly hot in here. I've found a cute little balcony with chairs in it—sort of a sun porch. I'll get your wrap," Gordon suggested to Ann.

"All right." It would be nice to get a breath of air. It was a balmy night for the middle of November, and there was a moon over Broadway.

They went out on the balcony, the moon in the remote cloak with its swirl of white fox fur, Ann drew a long, rapturous breath.

"Isn't life lovely, Gordon?"

"It is when you're with me," he murmured.

Neither spoke for a while. The air hummed with the sound of traffic on Broadway and its side streets.

In the light of electric signs of multitudinous hues, Ann's face was calmly pretty.

"Ann! Listen! Look at me!" Before she could stop him, he had caught her in his arms.

Buries Face

How was he to know that Brenda Seiz had come out on the balcony, for privacy, for a hope of love-making with Paul Bradley, and that they were directly behind him as he buried his miserable, ardent young face in Ann's fur collar?

Accompanied by Paul Bradley at the store dance, nothing could have pleased Brenda Seiz better than to come upon pretty Ann Deisfield with Gordon Gavin's arms about her and his young face buried in the fur collar of her evening wrap, there on the secluded little balcony.

"Paul, come away! We're intruding!" Brenda whispered to Paul.

Knowing the fastidiousness of the merchandise-manager, she thought: "This'll be the finish of his interest in her!"

The loud hum of traffic down on Broadway had silenced their footsteps. So quickly did they leave the balcony that they were unseen by Ann. Nor did they have the time to see her gently but firmly remove Gordon's encompassing arms, and step back from him.

Inside the building, Brenda, remarking she was somewhat fatigued and would like a cigarette, led Paul to a couch behind some palms.

So that was that!" She contrived a bright, sympathetic smile that served two purposes. It re-assured she thought, any suggestion of cattiness against her rival. Also it displayed her flashing white teeth.

Paul asked sharply: "That was the boy from the Advertising, was it not?"

Lights "Fog"

Now as Gordon Gavin's face had been completely hidden in Ann's collar, this implied that Paul had been keeping tabs on the fair girl evening, Brenda thought.

She shrugged nonchalantly as he lit her cigarette for her, and leaned back on the couch in the manner of pictures she'd seen in the newspapers that were captioned: "Smart Society Woman at Ball of the Elite." She didn't cross her legs because she had thick ankles. In more ways than one, Brenda was astute.

"Oh, we mustn't be too hard on them—at least not outside of business hours. It might be any one of a half-dozen fellows she plays around with. She's young —"—this with an effort at appearing generous—"you really can't blame her for flirting."

He gave Brenda a close look. "It was not my impression that Miss Deisfield is—er—light-minded. Quite the reverse, in fact."

She saw he was troubled, and that angered her. A chit in her teens to come out of her society environment and play ducks and drakes with real people, who had their human feelings, as she had!

"It's as likely young Gavin as not! Miss Sheiffish told me she came upon them kissing in one of her fitting-salons." Which was inaccurate, this tale having sprung from furiously jealous Renita Parrish.

There was a strange pause. The look in the eyes of the merchandising-manager was inscrutable. Brenda had an uncomfortable suspicion that he was reading her very soul, and knew she was desperately exaggerated about Ann Deisfield.

"Does it matter so much, really?" she asked softly, moving a couple of inches nearer Paul.

Certainly the conduct of the salesgirls matters. The morals must be maintained. Miss Sheiffish should have reported the affair to me. I shall take it up with her," he said brusquely, never removing that penetrating gaze from the face of Brenda.

"Oh, for heaven's sake, don't do that, please! Miss Sheiffish would never forgive me for telling about her department, and we're such good friends! I only told you in confidence because you seemed so anxious to know who the young man with Miss Deisfield was."

"I understand," said Paul, "that for a time he was—er—interested in Renita Parrish?"

Brenda seized on that like a hawk.

"They were privately engaged—it was an understood thing—till Miss Deisfield came into the store. But that isn't the first romance she's broken up. She just can't help it, Paul. I suppose it's all in the upbringing, really. I mean not having to work, like us, and that European education she got. It's a fact, anyway, that she goes out plenty with the men in the store—like Rameses, the window-dresser—and the girls tell me she makes dates over the phone with the manufacturers. I ran right into her myself in the buying offices, having a grand time with the salesmen."

He said curtly: "She had no business in the buying offices."

Now the story about Rameses was a pure invention. And the truth about Ann's visit to the buying department was that Miss Sheiffish had sent Ann to inform the representative of Max Furchheimer, manufacturer of misses' dresses, that she would await the return of Max himself from Chicago before placing any more orders.

"Love's Young Dream," the salesman had said, for he was astute. But it had been he who had been laughing at his joke, not Ann, when Brenda had spied them.

"Forget it, Paul. Beginners are apt to make mistakes. I'm not the person to get anybody in trouble."

It disconcerted him to hear that story about Ann Deisfield, and the very fact that the doings of a salesgirl should upset him, added to his discomfiture.

What was the child to him? What did she matter, anyway?

If she was flirtatious round the store, making dates with the manufacturers, how had he ever imagined she could make a trustworthy buyer?

Eyes Flash

When the manufacturers stood in awe of him and his power to dictate to them what they were to manufacture for Barclay & Weiss, was this child to set at naught the policy of the store (only to be discussed in the closest confidence of the executives) that social relations were something quite apart from business?

Ann had seemed so respectful, so humble almost, the first day she had entered the store. From comparison-shopper he had demoted her to salesgirl in the misses' dresses, because he thought the experience would be salutary for her, after her overenthusiasm in ordering the masks and dominoes for the skating carnival, and having the goods returned unpaid for, and, furthermore, he had though that direct contact with the customers would be excellent discipline.

Was Brenda Seiz telling the truth?

Why was she edging closer to him and sighing, and laying her dark eyes at him like a couple of gig-lamps?

"You're a wonderful person, Paul. I often tell people you're an Atlas, carrying the whole world on your shoulders—"

This classical allusion she considered was a master-stroke.

He smiled mechanically.

"Why don't you say I'm a potato, with eyes all over my head?"

"Oh, a potato has no brains"—she laughed shrilly, a little put out at his lack of response—"it as only yesterday I was telling Mr. Weiss that you sure are the whole brains of the organization!"

"Well, that wouldn't make a bit with him, my dear girl. Don't forget the owner has his own creative policy."

Edges Near

The "my dear girl" delighted her. She edged still closer. The scarlet chiffon handkerchief tied to her left wrist was on his knee. Couldn't he take the hint, and hold her hand?

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE -:- By Beatrice Fairfax

Taxing Some Bachelors Appears Like Adding Insult to Injury

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A recent dispatch from Mexico tells us it is possible that Mexican bachelors will be confronted with a proposal either to marry or to pay taxes.

It seems, however, hard to believe that Mexico, of all places, even considers putting a premium on the single blessedness of the male.

One visualized the dark-eyed senorita sitting back of the grilled window while the lovelorn youth twanged his guitar below. But old Mexico, it seems, has taken a page from various European countries which tax bachelors, and perhaps the New Deal may not be long in following suit.

Nothing shakes the romance out of a woman like grim economic conditions. A love-song ballad in many languages, has for its framework, "When poverty looks in at the door, love flies out of the window." And there has been less marrying and giving in marriage in Mexico during the last decade, as has been true for the rest of the world.

WOMEN ASK TAX

So, a little while ago, 20 women filed a petition with the legislature asking a tax all unmarried men, 20 years of age or older, five per cent of their annual income. The petition went into details, and declared the tax would provide three benefits.

First, The population would be greatly increased. That seems to worry a good many countries at the present time.

Second, If Mexicans marry young, development of the country's natural resources would be accomplished more quickly.

Third, That crime would decrease, for wives would keep their husbands at home and out of trouble.

The women's delegation proposed that the tax be used to help younger men get married, construct maternity hospitals and build homes for women. The Mexican Congress has agreed to consider the proposal at its next session in September.

Let the bachelors in this country watch out for this cloud, at present no bigger than a man's hand. If the law is a success in Mexico, and if it works out as well as it has in several European countries, it may be put on our own statute books. That's the way with taxes.

INSULT OF MEN

But I can't help but think with sympathy—if the measure becomes legal in this country—of all those shy, lonesome young men who have written to me during the years I have edited this column—men who have never married because the girls they adored wouldn't consent.

They've seen their girls walk up the aisle with someone they felt to be utterly unworthy.

And as they continued inward flow to tax these bachelors, charging them 5 per cent of their incomes for their misfortune, seems to me to be adding insult to injury.

What do you think of it? I should be glad to hear from you on the subject.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We are very good friends, we two girls.

There's a boy we know very well who likes my girl friend, but she doesn't like him.

He is very sensitive, and she does not wish to hurt his feelings by avoiding him.

However, I like this boy very much, and he would probably like me if he thought my friend didn't care for him.

How can he be made to understand in a nice way, and without hurting his feelings, that he's "barking up the wrong tree"?

TROUBLED GIRLS

DEAR FRIENDS:

Nothing easier. The girl who doesn't like him can sing your praises and tell him you think he's great. All male creatures enjoy being told of some girl's approval.

When all of you have a date, the preferred girl can make herself scarce and let you try your charm.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

We've been going together for over a year now. He has told me he loves me, and I certainly love him. But when he takes me home at night he seems shy and bashful. He has never kissed me goodnight.

I believe he is waiting for me to ask him for a goodnight kiss, but I think he should do that, don't you?

Please tell me who should ask for the kiss first. DOT.

MY DEAR CHILD:

Women's progress has been rapid during recent years. We've achieved the vote, crowded the professions, flown the Atlantic and entered the presidential campaign.

But when it comes to kissing, it seems that the gentleman still takes the initiative.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Would it be all right to bring along some cats when my girl asks me to supper?

They're such nice people, and are so hospitable, but I know that even a simple meal must be hard for them to manage, because the only one working is my sweetheart, and she doesn't get very much. J. W. V.

MY DEAR READER:

You'll have to be extremely tactful about managing a thing of this sort, and make it appear entirely casual.

You might have an imaginary aunt living in the country who sends you fresh eggs, country butter and chickens.

She might also endow you with preserves and vegetables. And you might tell your girl that as you're not keeping house yet, you'd be glad if she'd accept these things.

And then, for goodness sake, don't forget to remove the commercial wrappings, if any!

Better get a roll of country butter and home-made canned stuff from the Woman's Exchange, or they'll see through your kindly ruse.

CHAPTER 139

DICKY'S voice was apparently as calm and unhurried as always. But there was a note in it which told me that he was tremendously exercised over something.

"Tell he down immediately," I said. Then I turned to Junior and Roderick

"Here's your first chance to obey military orders," I said craftily, and rejoiced as I saw their eyes brighten.

"You're to go into your room, lock the door behind you and read or rest until one of the family calls you." I said, "You are not to look out of the windows, no matter what you hear. Promise!"

"Take it easy!" my husband admonished me sharply as I started to run down stairs. "We've no time in the world now."

"Can you keep from exclaiming if I tell you something exciting?" he asked.

"Now that I'm warned, I can," I told him, smiling.

"That's the reason I'm warning you," he returned with a grin. "But I'm sure you'll be glad to know that Monsieur Jean le Jambon, self-styled, is safely deposited in the bungalow with a couple of state troopers sitting on his chest, more or less figuratively."

"But," I stammered, "have you any right to put him in jail?"

"Me pauvre enfant," Dicky said teasingly, "gentlemen are not permitted to climb rose trellises on other people's property to try to effect an entrance'. I guess that's the correct legal jargon."

"But Mary's the only one who saw him," I said stubbornly, "and we can't have her as a witness against him. She mustn't know who he is, and he mustn't see her."

"Got it all figured out, hasn't she?" Right down to the trial by jury." Dicky glued. "But, as it happens, Mary wasn't the only one who saw him on the trellis.

A Common Quirk

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

Watching an inexpert player on the defense, the conclusion is unescapable that he holds a sort of sacred veneration for his own tricks as against a mere fondness for his partner's.

Not being a psychiatrist, I am unable to account for this quaint quirk, but long experience and unbiased observation have convinced me that it actually exists.

Today's hand is an illustration of this thesis.

West, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
1♣	2♡	Double	2 N.T.
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the King of spades instead of his fourth highest, since, on the bidding he felt safe that the declarer had something like A J x.

THE RIGHT SHIFT

West sensed the true state of affairs in the spade suit, and therefore made the correct shift to the four of hearts (diamond) dummy played low. East won with the King, and returned the nine, forcing dummy's Ace. The low club was now led to declarer's Queen, and West won.

West saw the danger of declarer's running off the diamond tricks if he, West, were to cash the Ace of spades. He therefore guarded against this as well as against being subsequently thrown on lead, forcing the Ace of hearts and then exiting with the ten of spades.

West's defense had been perfect but he had not reckoned on the shortsightedness of his partner. Dummy won the ninth ten and led a low heart. Now it was up to East, and East went to pieces!

THE GAME ENDS

Therefore he jumped up with the fatuous remark, and after that it was all over. East had neither a spade nor a diamond to lead, and therefore could not avoid throwing dummy back on lead with a heart or a club. Dummy cashed all its good tricks and declarer's spade Ace acted for the eighth and fulfilling trick.

Obviously had East sacrificed his heart Queen and allowed declarer's nine to win the trick the contract's defeat would have been inevitable.

Exactly Like a Hand-Knit

IT'S HAND LOOMED, which means that your worst friend can't tell it from a hand-knit except by microscopic examination, and that the price is correspondingly less. The Fashion Congress tagged it for its sweet versatility, for its rugged disposition and general all-around helpfulness in the wardrobe. Miss Jane Brown models. A deep hunter green wool chenille, it features sports details on the jacket —inverted pleats in the Norfolk style. And it takes a tip from Schiaparelli, who banished boredom from buttons, and uses gun metal lion heads as fastenings. The godets in front are repeated in back, guaranteeing a flattering fit from this skirt, and that is certainly reaching a new high in knitdom! For shopping information on the two-piece knit suit, or the matching beret of wool chenille knit, phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, Liberty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American.

Spooky Treats for Halloween Parties

'Horror Cauldron' New Delight

By MARTHA LEE

WE DON'T want to tell you what to do on Halloween for the charm of the evening lies in its spontaneity and the fun that naturally arises from gathering together a congenial group of friends. But you might start them off with a "Horror Cauldron."

It it one of the most thrilling goose-flesh contraptions ever concocted and can be varied according to the extent of your ingenuity. The cauldron is a huge hollowed out pumpkin unless you are lucky enough to have a real iron cauldron in your vicinity.

Line the inside of the pumpkin with lots of moistened newspaper and then throw in an assortment of wiggly, wobbly things calculated to raise the hair on your guests' heads when they grope inside for a fortune.

The fortunes themselves can be wrapped securely in paper and cellophane, but the horror effects should consist of such things as rubber spiders and mice, small sweet pickles, lima beans coated with olive oil and anything wiggly and weird. The fortunes consist of wedding rings, hearts, gold coins, etc.

Here are suggestions for spooky treats easy to prepare:

—1—

Baked Beans — Cole Slaw
Brown Bread and Butter
Relishes — Sweet Cider Tartlets
Coffee — Cider

—2—

Welsh Rabbit on Toast
Toasted Salad
Hot Biscuits and Butter
Orange Fruit Baskets

Frozen Orange Custard
Chocolate Sauce — Coffee

—6—

Cold Cuts — Cheese Crackers
Chutney — Mustard — Olives
Stuffed Celery — Carrot Sticks
Rye Bread and Butter
Fruit — Doughnuts — Nuts
Cider — Coffee — Beer

SWEET-CIDER TARTLETS

2 cups apple cider
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons cornstarch
3 egg yolks
Rind and juice of ½ lemon
Pastry

Bring cider to a boil. Pour over sugar, spices and cornstarch mixed together. Cook until it thickens and add to lightly-beaten eggs. Mix and pour into tart shells. Bake at 400 deg. F. for 10 minutes; then reduce heat to 325 deg. F. and bake until firm.

Top with a meringue made with

3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1-3 cup sugar
Few grains salt
Few drops lemon extract

Bake in moderate oven, 350 deg. F., for 18 minutes.

Get Value When You Budget

IF YOU must furnish your apartment on a budget—and who doesn't—don't think that means scrimping on a lampshade that comes apart the first time it is dusted, or going without comfortable chairs.

The trick is to decorate with distinction and charm for exactly what you spend. Here is some advice on the subject from House Beautiful:

Use neutral colors where there is a lot of space and save your bright colors for accent. Use enough patterned fabrics to give life to your rooms, but not enough to make them "busy." Don't ever try to economize on rugs; you can't. Only the best is good enough, and only the best will last through time and good taste. Buy furniture of good design, and don't be carried away by an astonishingly low price.

"Your Figure, Madame!"

EXERCISE IS HARD, BUT IT

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Copyright, 1936, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

MUSCLES make the silhouette, and of the approximate 680 muscles in the body, the abdominals are the most important to health and posture control. If you let all the other exercises go, keep your muscular girdle in shape.

The figure-controlling function of these muscles is minor when compared to their role in health. They are the sole support of the vital organs, and for health's sake they must be kept in good tone.

The problem in every type figure is to keep the abdominal muscles in good condition, and it takes special effort to discipline these muscles, for everything we do tends to weaken them. If we slump, we don't even walk correctly. We go through day after day with a minimum of physical activity, and such activity as we are likely to get seldom involves the use of the trunk muscles. No wonder the figure takes on lumpy-dumpty outlines.

In reducing, it is especially necessary to exercise the abdominal muscles as the fat is lost. The organs which were cushioned with fatty tissue must now be supported by the muscles. In excessive overweight, so weak, lonesome muscles care must be taken to avoid any strain in exercise. Any possibility of strain is removed by flexing the knees and keeping the soles of the feet flat on the floor. The first four exercises in the set, "Corrective Exercises to Discipline a Protruding Abdomen," are perfectly safe for the beginner.

It is just as important for underweights as for reducers to strengthen the abdominal muscles; otherwise the newly acquired weight will center in this area. The underweight is inclined to slump into bad posture, and since strong abdominal muscles help to hold the figure erect, this is the first step in correcting the posture.

Even perfect weight does not give you a straight front line if the abdominal muscles lack tone. Weakness of these figure-controlling muscles can give as pronounced an effect of shapelessness as excessive overweight.

The following exercises can remake your figure by the simple process of strengthening these muscles:

POSITION—Lie with the head touching a wall, arms straight down at sides, palms on the floor.

MOVEMENT—Swing the body with the weight resting on the shoulders, bend the knees and touch the pointed knees to the wall. Return to the floor and repeat not more than six times. In this exercise, the abdominal muscles are flexly contracted, and while it is difficult to perform, the results are effective.

If you would just keep the four pairs of abdominal muscles working for your figure, you would never need worry about middle-age spread, proper elimination or your complexion. Exercise of the trunk muscles will not only keep you trim, but will keep you fit.

Send to Ida Jean Kain, in care of this paper, for "Corrective Exercises to Discipline a Protruding Abdomen." Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope along with your request.

Diet In Time Saves Line

MANY of the popular movie stars have as great difficulty holding the princess line as you.

Many insist that the most pleasant and easiest way to reduce is by eating delicious salads because they can keep a sharp check on those tricky little heat units called calories.

Yet there is no loss of energy or vitality which so often accompanies other forms of weight control.

A woman requires only 1800 to 2000 calories daily. While reducing, the daily caloric amount can be safely cut to between 1200 and 1000 calories.

Calories or Pounds

It's easy to reduce with crisp appetizing salads. They're rich in vitamins for vigor, toothsome to taste, and, oh, how kind to the figure! Because they're low in calory count.

It's no hardship at all to pass up a fattening 200-calory Cream Soup for an attractive 85-calory Tomato and Cheese Salad. Make it by slicing a tomato and putting it together, sandwich fashion, with 2 tablespoons of cottage cheese. Set it in a nest of 1 cup of shredded cabbage moistened with Mineral Oil Dressing.

Or parify your craving for bulge-building desserts with a salad on the sweet side! Blush that wedge of Lemon Meringue Pie. Its 450 calories menace your girlish figure. An Orange and Mint Salad of 125 calories fills the bill. It has sections of orange with mint and maraschino cherries, served with Fluffed Banana Dressing.

Calories or Pounds

You'll find the recipe for this unusual dressing in our new booklet of salads for all occasions, SALAD, THE BEAUTY COURSE, it contains the calories for you. Forty pages of fascinating salad recipes which help to make you a master of the art of salad making. Why not write at once for your copy.

Send 15c for our booklet, SALAD, THE BEAUTY COURSE, to Boston Evening American, Home Institute, 109 West 39th Street, New York, N. Y. Write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, and NAME of booklet.

Jewish Fund Gets $85,000 Raised By Women

Women remained in the spotlight of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies campaign today as the results of a large army of women volunteers were at the last report luncheon of the week at Federal street headquarters.

Mrs. Lyman Lehrburger, women's division chairman, revealed the women's drive in the residential sections of the city totalled $85,500 toward the $102,000 goals.

According to Mrs. Lehrburger, the reports of the various supervisors indicated a marked increase over last year's contributions solicited by women.

Norman S. Rabinovitz, division commander, announced that $24,414 reported at the Friday meeting swelled the campaign total to $469,782.

Speakers included Colleen Moore, pretty motion picture star who is in Boston with her famous doll house. Miss Moore told the women:

"It is my aim to raise one million dollars during the next five years for the underprivileged and crippled children of the United States."

Mrs. Hyman Freiman, women's division chairman during the past five years, and Louis Kirstein, associated Jewish Philanthropies chairman, also addressed the workers.

Report luncheons will be resumed Monday, at which time Family Welfare Day will be observed.

Green Will Fight Off Till Nov. 18

New York, Oct. 31 (AP)—Appraisers began today the task of itemizing the value of New York state property left by Col. Edward H. R. Green as further hearings in the contest over his estate were postponed to Nov. 18.

Mrs. Mabel Harlow Green, his widow, is seeking to break his will in which Mrs. Matthew Astor Wilks, his sister, is the chief beneficiary of the estate estimated at $75,000,000 to $80,000,000.

Much of it consists of precious stones, stamps and coins. Testimony indicated Col. Green spent as much as $1,000,000 a year on these hobbies.

Houdini Spirit Message Sought

Hollywood, Oct. 31 (AP)—Ten years to the hour after Harry Houdini died a group will gather tonight—Hallowe'en—on a hotel roof in a final effort to communicate with the spirit of the great magician.

They hope to hear his disembodied voice from 8:30 to 9 p. m. (P. S. T.).

The group, composed equally of believers in psychic phenomena, spiritists, scientists and agnostics, will assemble at the request of his wife, Mrs. Beatrice Houdini.

"Long before he died," Mrs. Houdini said, "we agreed that whoever should go first would try to return to the other. In his last hours, he said to me, 'Beatrice, I'll come to you somehow, even though I have to go through hell.'

We agreed on a message in code. It was known only to the two of us. The compact was to last 10 years and no longer. The message has never been received.

AUSTEN LAKE

Gridiron's Grisly List Makes First Fall Appearance

EXAMINING THE RECORD OF FOOTBALL martyrdom this autumn it appears that the people keeping the macabre count are stuffing the polls with fatalities which have no more to do with football than your octogenarian aunt tripping over the cat.

Austen Lake

For example in the current roll of nineteen deaths charged against the game here are the following:

1. Tom Gannon and Carl Dahlbeck, Purdue University, September 13 and 17, from burns received in a locker room fire.

2—Daniel Correll, 16, Leham High School, Canton, O., Oct. 6, killed by lightning during practice.

3—Joseph A. Christy, 18, Penn State College freshman, Oct. 18, from head injuries received during a "touch" down football game.

These, of course, are regrettable happenings, but they are not, per se, football accidents for which the game can justly be reproached. Gannon and Dahlbeck died because a leaky gasoline stove overflowed in a shower room and turned the floor into a pool of liquid fire. Correll might have been struck by lightning while lying at home in bed. And "touch" football, which accounted for Christy's death, is not football at all, but a kind of denatured tag

SALEM In Brockton BATTLE

EVERETT GOES TO N. H.

The schoolboy grid card for this Halloween day is not up to the standard of past years with the majority of the leading elevens facing mediocre opponents.

The outstanding game of the day is scheduled for Eaton Keith Field in Brockton where the high school team plays host to the invading Salem Witches.

Brockton, boasting five wins in as many starts, meets its stiffest test of the season. The victories to date have been against second rate teams and this afternoon will give the Shoe City eleven a chance to display its power.

Lou Montgomery and Frank Saba have been the real threats so far and both should give a good account of himself in this tilt.

New Passes

Bill Broderick expects to spring a new passing offense on which he has been drilling the Witches all week. This is thought to be the only weakness of the Shoemen and Broderick intends to either dispel this theory or take advantage of it. With Al Juraewicz and Stan [illegible] in the backfield Salem has a strong running attack which combined with the passes is bound to be troublesome.

Salem's recent win over Leominster, to drive this team from the undefeated class, has boosted its stock considerable, but Brockton carries too many witch omens and should add the visitors to its list of victims.

Denny Gildea takes his undefeated Everett team to Manchester, N. H., to meet the Central eleven.

Manchester displayed plenty of scoring punch [illegible] with a tricky offensive of laterals and forward passes but Everett [illegible] its captain, Al Romberi, should come back on the high end of the score.

[illegible]

Medford high will be without the services of its star back, Jimmy Dwyer, when the team invades the Memorial Stadium to meet Chelsea.

[illegible]

Haverhill, still among the undefeated should extend its win streak against a weak Quincy [illegible] take the margin [illegible]

I'm all the Coach's boy now he broke his leg in the Yale game. I still send him said with patient, almost gentle reproach. "Shucks, it's the same one I busted last year." But there was a flash of regret on his face and a whiteness about his lips. It's like that.

HEADGUARDS VS. BOILER PLATE

IN THE REST OF THE 1936 DEATH list there are six school, college and club players who died of head injuries, most of them specified "while tackling." One, at the moment of injury, wore no helmet (Donald Baker of Philadelphia), which prompted a civic ordinance in Atlantic City, where the accident happened, that any football player who did not wear a headguard would henceforth be barred from the game.

* * *

MERCY FOR THE INJURED

ONE THING ALL FOOTBALL OFFICIALS should insist upon is that teammates of an injured player keep their hands off their fallen mate until the trainer arrives with his surgical kit and can make a competent diagnosis. Last year, for example, a Carnegie back had his leg in the Rose Carnival game and a teammate grabbed at his ankle to help the trainer. Fortunately the boy screamed in time to save the leg from [illegible] in several places and heal. Like a homerang so that the attendant physician summoned by the trainer, paid no attention to the master, but with shoestrings, to splints, to hospital corners and keep apart bone ends from piercing the flesh.

Helen Broderick Gets Lead in Comedy 'Lady Average'

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Los Angeles, Oct. 31 (US)—No wonder Sam Bischoff got excited and bought the magazine story, "Lady Average" from the galley proofs. This yarn by Jack Goodman and Albert Lexenthal sounds like it should really make a hilarious comedy. It concerns a contest in which the sponsors are looking for the average American woman who, it seems, buys fifteen pounds of ice weekly, reads one newspaper, and has four children.

'Carrie' Film Delights at Met

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Carrie" is the story of a girl who starts out as a poor but honest factory worker and ends up as the wife of a successful man about town. Between these two extremes, however, there is a lot of trouble, and it is all very interesting. The picture is based on Theodore Dreiser's novel, which was a best seller in its day, and which has been brought to the screen with a fidelity to the book that is commendable. Laurence Stallings has written the screen play, and Pandro S. Berman has produced it. Both have done a good job.

Greta Garbo's Beauty

Before Hollywood Did!

"America has the most beautiful women in the world," says Arnold Genthe, famous photographer. And he ought to know. His photos brought out the beauty in Greta Garbo that Hollywood couldn't recognize.

In an intensely interesting article in the Magazine Section of Sunday's Boston Herald, Genthe describes the secrets of Garbo's beauty and tells YOU how to capitalize on the latent charm with which every woman is endowed.

DON'T MISS—

J. Edgar Hoover, Chief "G-Man," tells the inside story of the nation's crime-detection laboratory . . . , there is a thrilling mystery story by E. Phillips Oppenheim entitled "The Twelve Drugged Men" . . . Nina Wilcox Putnam writes about "That Wonderful Old Car" . . . "Afraid You'll Regret It" tells a short-story of a "bankrupt" trying to borrow . . . and from the woman's angle there are favorite recipes, style and makeup hints, home-making department and fashion news, with many illustrations in full color.

Army Forces Out Bagdad Premier

Bagdad, Iraq, Oct. 31 (US)—The army took command of the state in this city of Ali Baba and his 40 thieves and military leaders sat in the seats of power as a result of a sudden, unexpected putsch.

Army pilots flew over the capital and rained bombs on parliament, demanding that Premier Yasin resign within two hours. He did.

Radio News and Notes:

Landon St. Louis Speech Broadcast After F. D. R.

By N. F. T.

For the first time and just about the last time for at least some time, Governor Alfred M. Landon of Kansas and President Roosevelt are speaking to the nation-wide air audience, one after the other.

F. D. R. has the coast to coast floor (WNAC) from 9:30 to 10:30, and the G. O. P. standard bearer moves in at the "mike" right behind him (WNAC and WEEI) at 10:30 and will talk until 11 p. m. There'll be no "chateau" hour.

"N. F. T."

Then too, there's Colonel Frank Knox, the Landon running mate, holding forth in Chicago (WEEI) at 8 o'clock this evening. Gov. Landon is being welcomed by the people who must be shown, as the old saying has it, the folks from Missouri. He is a guest in St. Louis today and tonight and his air address will originate there. President Roosevelt is down New York way, using Madison Square Garden for one of his final rallies.

SPEEDSHOWSETTING

The twinkling toes of Mr. Bill Robinson will dance up to the microphone between 9 and 9:30 this evening (WEEI), when the famous Negro star is a guest of Floyd Gibbons on the fast moving "Speedshow" program. Irene Bordoni, vivacious French singing star, will also be heard in this broadcast, along with Vincent Lopez and his orchestra.

"Greatest tap dancer in the world" is what they've been calling Bill Robinson along Broadway for years. "Old Man Bojangles Himself" is one of his newer titles.

* * *

Another chapter in the lives of "Snow Village's" leading citizens, "Dan'l Dickey" and "Hiram Neville," will be presented tonight (WNAC) at 9:00 p. m. Dan'l, portrayed by Arthur Allen, and Hiram, played by Parker Fennelly, will be joined by the other familiar characters, Aunt Hattie, Effie Neville, Grandsir, Lew Pettingill, Willy Peters and the rest. The "Snow Village Sketches" series, depicting life in a mythical town in the New Hampshire Hills, is winning its way well and because it is realism, not hokum.

HISTORIC HIGHLIGHT

The overture to "Oberon," romantic opera by von Weber, will be the selection featured by Edward d'Anna and his Carborundum band in the "Voice of Niagara" program (WEEI) this evening from 7:30 to 8:00 p. m.

First feature in the program will be the telling of the ancient Iroquois Indian legend of the manner in which the woodchuck got his stripes by Francis Bowman, narrator, writer and producer of the program. Here is another splendid example of well done radio work.

In the musical portion of the program, the selection following von Weber's "Oberon" will be the Spanish Movement from "Foreign Lands," a colorful composition by the Russian composer, Moskowski.

Daughter Assists Mother in Divorce

New Bedford, Oct. 31—Her daughter's sleuthing obtained the evidence which caused Judge Mayhew Hitch to grant an uncontested divorce to Mrs. Mary Furtado, of this city, in Probate Court.

The 21-year-old daughter, Dorothy, testified she had trailed her father when he said he was going to a lodge meeting and had seen him meet another woman.

Boyfriend Carries Burglar Lantern

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Dear Diary:—My boondoggling friend is in a big torchlight procession tonight. He's carrying a burglar's lantern.

Admiral Byrd is going to send out a low wave broadcast from the polls. The boyfriend is voting on Monday to make sure its gets counted by Tuesday.

Nobody will know how any man votes. The idea of this secrecy is to keep the election honest after the bribes have been pocketed.

P. S.—It would serve the candidates right if fifteen million radio listeners voted for Jefferson and Jackson.

2 Bids and Proposals

Bituminous Macadam or Penolithic Type Surfacing. City of LYNN, Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Notice to Contractors. Sealed proposals for constructing a section of highway consisting of about 15880 square yards of either standard bituminous macadam or penolithic type surfacing (the type to be constructed to be decided by the Party of the First Part when the contract is awarded) and about 2870 square yards of bituminous concrete surfacing for sidewalks will be received by the Mayor at the office of the State Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Mass., until 12 o'clock noon of Tuesday, November 10, 1936, and at that place and time will be publicly opened and read. Plans, specifications and other pertinent data may be examined at the office of said Department. Plans and a pamphlet containing the Itemized Proposal with Special Provisions may be obtained upon payment of a charge of $5.00 which amount will be returned only to those who submit a formal bid for the project on the form provided in said pamphlet within the time stipulated. All bids must be accompanied by a surety bond approved and accepted by the Department or by a certified check made payable to the City of Lynn for the amount of $1000.00. The check or bond must not be included in the sealed envelope with the proposal but must be delivered to the Business Agent of the Department who will give a proper voucher for the deposit. The wages paid to labor on this project shall not be less than those prescribed by the State Department of Labor and Industries in accordance with the requirements of Chapter 461 of the Acts of 1935 (to which the Contractor's attention is directed) and set forth in a schedule of minimum wages, copies of which may be obtained from the office of said Department. The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals or to accept the one deemed best for the City. By J. Fred Manning, Mayor of Lynn. October 31, 1936.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS. Department of Public Works. October 30, 1936. Sealed bids or proposals will be received by the Department of Public Works at its office, 4th Floor, 100 Nashua St., Boston, Mass., until 12 o'clock Noon, Tuesday, November 10, 1936 and then and there will be publicly opened and read. The work to be done is the construction of four stone jetties at Harwichport in the Town of Harwich. It is estimated that about 1200 tons of stone riprap will be required to construct the four jetties. All proposals must be made upon the blank forms which may be obtained at the office of the Department where plans and specifications and other information relative to the work may be secured. A charge of Two Dollars ($2.00) will be made for the plans and specifications which amount will be refunded only to those who submit a formal bid for the project on the form provided, the refund to be made within ten days after the bids are opened. Each bidder will be required to give to the Department satisfactory assurance of his competency, experience and responsibility. Particular attention is called to the fact that the provisions of Article XXII of the Specifications relating to the giving of preference to the employment of veterans and citizens will be strictly enforced. Attention is called to the minimum rate of wages to be paid on the work as determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries under the provisions of Chapter 461 of the Acts of 1935. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids and to waive any defect or informality at the discretion of the Department. WILLIAM F. CALLAHAN, Commissioner. RICHARD K. HALE, FRANK E. LYMAN, Associate Commissioners.

Bituminous Macadam or Penolithic Type Surfacing. Town of SUNDERLAND, Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Notice to Contractors. Sealed proposals for constructing a section of highway consisting of about 12435 square yards of either standard bituminous macadam or penolithic type surfacing (the type to be constructed to be decided by the Party of the First Part when the contract is awarded) will be received by the Board of Selectmen at the office of the State Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Mass., until 12 o'clock noon of Tuesday, November 10, 1936, and at that place and time will be publicly opened and read. Sealed proposals for constructing two sections of highway consisting of about 10185 square yards of either standard bituminous macadam or penolithic type surfacing (the type to be constructed to be decided by the Party of the First Part when the contract is awarded) will be received by the Board of Selectmen at the office of the State Department of Public Works, 100 Nashua Street, Boston, Mass., until 12 o'clock noon of Tuesday, November 10, 1936, and at that place and time will be publicly opened and read. Plans, specifications and other pertinent data may be examined at the office of said Department. Plans and a pamphlet containing the Itemized Proposal with Special Provisions may be obtained upon payment of a charge of $5.00 which amount will be returned only to those who submit a formal bid for the project on the form provided in said pamphlet within the time stipulated. All bids must be accompanied by a surety bond approved and accepted by the Department or by a certified check made payable to the Town of Clinton for the amount of $750.00. The check or bond must not be included in the sealed envelope with the proposal but must be delivered to the Business Agent of the Department who will give a proper voucher for the deposit. The wages paid to labor on this project shall not be less than those prescribed by the State Department of Labor and Industries in accordance with the requirements of Chapter 461 of the Acts of 1935 (to which the Contractor's attention is directed) and set forth in a schedule of minimum wages, copies of which may be obtained from the office of said Department. The right is reserved to reject any or all proposals or to accept the one deemed best for the Town. By Austin A. Phelan, John J. Kelly, Charles W. McDermott, Board of Selectmen of Clinton. October 31, 1936.

Do You Want a Statesman Or a Showman?

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has been presented as a candidate with great powers of persuasion at his command.

His intimates have frankly contended that an opponent of superior capacity to serve America as President could not stand against his power to charm.

This is putting high confidence in showmanship.

Is it not also putting a low estimate upon the intelligence of the people?

The campaign has perhaps proved the superiority of Mr. Roosevelt over Governor Landon as a spell-binder and as a showman.

With equal certainty, it has revealed Mr. Landon as the more capable executive, possessed of greater capacity for efficient administration and more firmly grounded in ...ed American principles.

...re we to believe Americans cannot properly evaluate ...oven statesmanship of Mr. Landon?

...re we to take the showman in preference to the man?

The Foes of America Want Roosevelt

GOVERNOR LANDON has asserted that the GREATEST ISSUE of this campaign is stated in the question:

SHALL THE AMERICAN FORM OF GOVERNMENT BE PRESERVED?

Inseparably linked with this question are the answers given, not only by the two presidential candidates, but by the forces supporting them.

No voter can fail to know that if Mr. Landon is elected as President the Constitution will remain inviolate, the courts will be undisturbed in their authority, and the American people will continue to enjoy the liberties that are their rightful heritage.

President Roosevelt, too, has assured America he respects its freedom.

If the people should probe no deeper than the stated claims of these two candidates, there would be no light on the issue.

But the examination cannot end at this point.

Who are the people back of the candidates, and what are THEIR intentions regarding continuance or change of the American system?

REGARDING Governor Landon, the answer is clear. Rallied in his support are organizations and citizens of all parties, all religions, all levels of American life, PLEDGED TO HIS ANSWER.

In startling contrast is the revelation of the powerful and insidious interests backing Mr. Roosevelt.

The people in this country advocating change in the American form of government are supporting Mr. Roosevelt.

The organizations sponsoring substitution of alien doctrines for American ideals are working, directly or indirectly, for the election of Mr. Roosevelt.

It is true that Mr. Roosevelt has publicly renounced this type of support.

But his renunciation has not shaken off a single one of all the radicals, the Socialists, the Communists, the alien enemies of American institutions.

These supporters are still clinging to the hem of his political raiment.

Why?

Not because they are especially fond of him.

But because they think he is accomplishing in America WHAT THEY WANT TO SEE ACCOMPLISHED.

ABRAHAM CAHAN, who returned recently from France to be honored by a group of pro-Roosevelt Socialists, told the whole story in these words:

"Mr. Roosevelt, although far from being a Marxist, represents Socialism IN THE BEST POSSIBLE MANNER."

Mr. Cahan quoted Leon Blum, who is responsible for the advance of Communism in France, as expressing admiration for what Mr. Roosevelt has done in America.

Monsieur Blum would not ADMIRE Mr. Roosevelt, if he did not think the same thing was being done in America THAT IS BEING DONE IN FRANCE.

Proof abounds that Socialists, radicals and Communists are ENTIRELY SATISFIED with the Roosevelt Administration AND WANT IT CONTINUED.

Mr. Roosevelt is thus suspect. He cannot profit by the support of these ENEMIES OF AMERICA and avoid responsibility for their presence in his train.

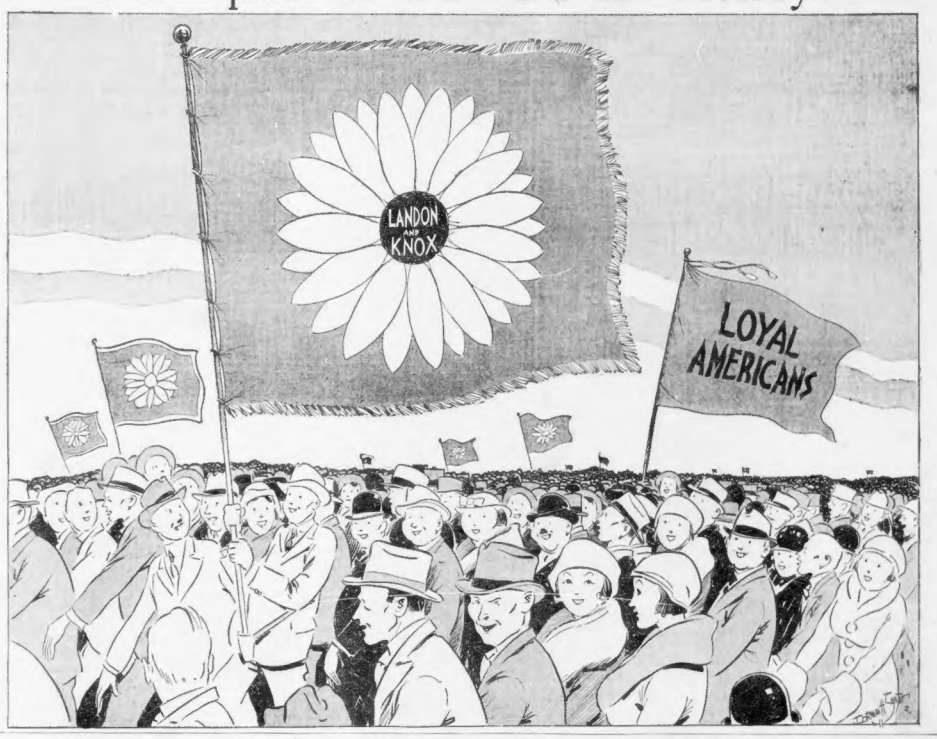
HERE, then, is the final picture as the campaign ends.

Mr. Landon is the candidate of those who say the American system SHALL be preserved.

Mr. Roosevelt is the candidate of those who say it SHALL NOT be preserved.

How can any loyal American citizen, attended at the polls by his conscience, faithful to the sacred obligation put upon him by his citizenship, fail to vote FOR THE PRESERVATION OF HIS COUNTRY?

The Spirit of '36---On to Victory!



New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

New York, Oct. 31—They were discussing Gilbert and Sullivan and their deserved triumphs at the Keats Sneeds the other evening. And one Savoyard observed: "To think those two geniuses split over a $14 red carpet." I knew they had differences, but not exactly what. Or do I know the commentator was correct.

O. O. McIntyre

But I do know the figurative $14 red carpet is the rock upon which many talented associations are smashed. Among the supersensitive one thing serves as well as another as excuse for the tempest. For instance: Two artists who occupied the same studio in Barrow street for 11 years in harmony.

In that calm that is the vortex, the temperamental tornado struck. One was reading the other's morning paper with the latter came out of the bath for breakfast. A flurry became so tense they stood poised with upraised chairs. They never spoke again, despite reconciliation efforts of friends.

Nerves are a deal like fiddle strings. They need a good letting down—or re-stringing—now and then. There's a high voltage fellow, Hendrik Van Loon, as I remember, who, when taut, motors to a tiny fishing village, buys a tin of sardines and crackers and wanders out on a pier and to munch and reflect. He goes back to his job refreshed.

Speaking of fiddle strings, the bull fiddlers in orchestra pits have always interested me. They seem the most complacent of musicians. While the clarinets and flutes labor feverishly through many notes, the bull fiddler gazes out over the audience with calm —the while proceeding unhurriedly with his see-saw vroomph, vroomph, vroomph. I have heard bull fiddlers have fiddles cached in convenient places over town to avoid long hauls in fulfilling engagements.

It would not seem to make much difference which bull fiddle a fiddler uses. To most it is just so much noise, yet a most important integral of orchestration.

The veteran iconoclast, Poultney Bigelow, usually checks in from his annual scout to Europe with something ironic about the state of America. His most recent blast was that our land had become just a glorified night club. He suggested the gals sidetrack their silk stockings and high heels and go back to the dairies.

Men past 60 have scant tolerance for red fingernails, endless cigarette smoking and various curls and twists burned into beautiful locks at the beauty shops. Or eyebrows completely plucked or pencil to suggest an imported Dietrich.

After 60 the scale turns to the simplicities—say the peach blown Danish girl, fresh from the leas of her native shire, without one whit of paint upon her skin, kohl under eyes, and with eyebrows the Creator parceled out.

And how the taste of literature have changed since Whittier was writing his "Snowbound" up there along the bleak New England countryside. I looked over my own bright jacketed array of books today—so many with trashy titles and reeking of sex and perversion, Hemingwayish, O'Haraish and Vincent Sheeanish — and recalled out of the dim past some volumes in our cherrywood book case.

Among them Character by Smiles; The Royal Path to Life, The Story of Our Country, Basic Beauty, and A Life of Jesus.

A colored boy who presides over the hall of a Riverside drive apartment house where I waited the other day capsuled the whole story of our land's economic sliding when he said that eight years ago when he came here from the West Indies people in the building paid their rents without urging and they paid from three to four hundred a month. Nowadays the management has to threaten dispossession to get $100.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Human nature being what it is, there are plenty of mean rackets flourishing as we go to press. But the meanest of 'em all, to my notion, is—A MOTHER'S TEARS."

Now, wait a minute, WAIT A MINUTE! before you phone the editor. Get this straight! I agree with you that Motherhood is the noblest job on earth. And personally I'm proud to belong to the ranks. Yet, I repeat that, of all contemptible rackets, I consider A Mother's Tears to be lowest.

What inspires this outburst? From 50 to 100 letters per day. Said letters being from writers whose lives are being messed up or entirely mangled by domestic interference.

Tragic things—those letters! Stories of lost chances... broken hearts . . . crippled ambition and shattered pride. All because of mother's tears. Or, possibly, papa's pouts. But, generally speaking, it's mother who does the dirty work, because she commands the situation.

UNFAIR TACTICS

This being so, mother's victims haven't even the place of anger. You can't get mad at your own mother, can you? You can't break her heart — your own mother's heart—after all she has done for you?

You most certainly can—and should!

If a mother won't listen to reason, and uses unfair tactics in playing the game, she deserves to be "gotten mad at"—plenty and pronto!

If a mother's heart is going to be broken simply because she can't have her own way, regardless of the other fellow's rights, then that mother should be treated exactly as you'd treat any other tyrant—and told where to head in!

Granting the sanctity of her position—admitting the warmth of her affection—the fact still remains that a mother is as apt to be stupid, selfish, short-sighted and unjust as any other citizen.

And when she takes advantage of her intimate relationship and uses an emotional whiplash to impose her will, then a mother's tears become no more worthy of respect than the privels of any other peevish mortal.

DIFFERENT NOW

Eighteen years ago, when this column was first started, it would have been impossible to print these statements in a syndicated column. The World War had demolished most of our old sentimentalities, but mother still stood immune from analysis or criticism. And the hard-hearted human who could regard a mother's tears unmoved, would have been rated as a heel and nothing else but.

But things, praises be, are looking up. Mothers—by their own demand—are rated as people in 1936, and judged accordingly.

Mother, herself, generally speaking, is a far better informed and infinitely braver person than she used to be. Homes are pleasanter places.

There's a happier relationship between parents and children. Today the mother who tries to rule her family with tears and tantrums is apt to be out of luck.

Yet there are still plenty of women who delight in putting their children on an emotional rack—partly to get their own way; partly to relieve their cussedness or boredom.

Such mothers are a disgrace to the craft. And I'm all for inciting seditious spitballs against 'em.

The Odds Favor Landon

The Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

It has surprised me that the Republican campaign managers did not make a lot of capital out of Frank Hague's offer to bet $50,000 that Governor Landon would carry the State of New Jersey in the election.

Edwin C. Hill

Frank Hague knows a lot about elections and a lot about betting. When he admitted that Landon was a 4-to-1 favorite, he was making a confession of which the Republicans should have taken better advantage.

Roosevelt carried New Jersey in 1932 when Hague was only a little more than lukewarm for him. Yet this time Hague, while held out by Farley as one of the chief Roosevelt supporters, practically conceded the State to Landon ten days before the election. The frankness of the boss of Hudson County always has been refreshing, just as his political cynicism has been the despair of the opposition and of reform.

A CLEAN CITY

Hudson county, New Jersey, lying just across the river from Manhattan Island, has a population of somewhere near half a million, and Frank Hague, its boss, is the mayor of Jersey City and has been for the past 19 years.

Hard-bitten and hard-hitting, if he has to use his hands, Frank Hague is a callous exponent of the game of politics. Yet he gives his people a government which, within the bounds of common sense, is as puritanical as that of Volfva in Zion City. Why? Well, if you asked Frank Hague he'd tell you:

"Because it's the way to keep in power."

* * *

A Pittsburgh office-holder, George Evans, came into New York the other day on his way back from hunting lions in Africa. After talking about his bag, he had this to say:

"Johannesburg is enjoying a big boom. President Roosevelt's raising the price of gold is responsible for it. And it is only because of America's generosity in buying in gold that they are able to take out about $35,000,000 worth a month, and that is no mean sum, anywhere.

"If those Rand gold mines were in my state of Pennsylvania, such mines would not be worth a nickel.

"Cheap native labor, not to forget Mr. Roosevelt, makes them worth what they are today. Why, they're mining gold there today that runs as low as four pennyweight to the ton! At a mile and more under the surface in my home state that stuff, and even the better grades, would just be worse that worthless."

To me, here is a lesson which should not be lost upon those internationalists who seem to be running our government in Washington at the present time. Isn't it about time that they first considered American standards of wages and living before going any further with their free trade planning and universal tariff pratties?

A STRIKING EXAMPLE

In theory, the opening wide of American markets for foreign competition may be the only logical thing to do. But we are not dealing with theory, we are dealing with facts. The main fact is that this country has been built for 50 years on protection of the American market for the American producer and wage-earner.

Right before us we have this example of a foreign country able to produce and to sell us not textiles, coal or lumber—but GOLD, at $35,000,000 a month; GOLD which if it was in the United States wouldn't be worth the trouble of mining.

When President Roosevelt was in New England on his campaign swing, he spoke of the smoke rising once again from the factories. It was only confidence that as he was speak the newspapers of Lawrence ried this headline:

ACADIA MILL, ONE LAWRENCE'S GREAT TON TEXTILE PL CLOSES DOWN; JAPS COMPETITION PART BLAME.

That's That

By Bruce Gustin

The question of most importance to the millions of American voters is what the future holds for them if they vote for four more years of President Roosevelt's New Dealing.

Do the 26,000,000 workers in business and industry want to look forward to a lifetime of toiling at CUT WAGES with the Federal Government taking a slice of their earnings every week or month to pay for its squandering?

Do the millions of unemployed want to spend the rest of their lives dependent upon public charity, raising their children on a dole?

Do American farmers want a political bureaucracy in Washington telling them how to run their farms, dictating what and how much of various crops they can plant, and regulating the number of hogs and cattle they are allowed to raise?

DO THE AMERICAN PEOPLE WANT TO LIVE UNDER ANY KIND OF A DICTATORSHIP RATHER THAN UNDER THE AMERICAN SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT?

The New Dealers brag about what they have done FOR the workingman.

Let the workingman and the workingwoman consider what the New Dealers have done TO them.

Take this nation-wide, wholesale wage cut ordered by the Roosevelt administration for 26 million business and industrial workers the first of next January.

WHO EVER HEARD OF CUTTING THE WAGES OF THE WORKERS OF THE NATION TO "HELP" THEM?

Of course, the New Dealers promise to give you something in return for what they are going to take out of your pay envelopes and salary checks.

They promise that, if you work until you are 65, and then quit work, they will give you a kind of pension ranging from $10 a month up to $85 a month, depending upon how many years you have worked and how much you have earned.

You can only guess how much of a pension you ever will draw.

But the 1 per cent cut the Government takes out of your wages next year will be all too real. You will know what that is.

If the government keeps the price of its bonds up where they are now, and it must do that unless it wants to wreck the banks which are loaded with government securities, the Secretary of the Treasury won't be able to buy the required bonds at a price which will yield 2 per cent. He will have to issue new bonds. The Treasury will sell bonds to the old age insurance fund and take the money. YOU KNOW WHAT HAPPENS TO MONEY IN THE FEDERAL TREASURY. THE GOVERNMENT SPENDS IT.

Today's Text: "Serve the Lord with gladness."—Psalm 100:2. Suggested by the Rev. Willard H. Roots, Episcopal minister, Foxboro.
